Did it for 'Sam'

'Son of Sam' makes confession

By EDWARD BASSETT

NEW YORK (UPI) — David Berkowitz, a former auxiliary policeman, confessed to the six "Son of Sam" murders Thursday and was ordered to undergo psychiatric examination, police sources said.

Berkowitz, who was described as setting out for a final bloodbath with a machinegun when he was captured, gave interrogators minute details of the 13 attacks, the sources said.

Police arrested Berkowitz, 24, a postal worker, outside his apartment in Yonkers, N.Y., Wednesday night as he started his car for a night journey to a Long Island discotheque.

An officer who questioned him said he planned to "go out in a blaze of glory" at the discotheque by "killing everybody."

"Who are you?" one of the arresting officers asked him as Berkowitz climbed from the car.

"Son of Sam," answered Berkowitz. "I guess this is the end of the line."

Found in the car was a letter signed "Son of Sam" and addressed to Suffolk County officials. It warned "Sam" would strike at one of two discotheques in the Hamptons and authorities "would be all summer counting the bodies."

Berkowitz was ordered held in maximum security without bail pending psychiatric tests.

In a year-long reign of terror, "Son of Sam" ambushed 13 persons — most of them couples parked in lovers' lanes — in widely scattered parts of the city. Five young women and a young man were killed. Seven other persons were wounded.

Most of "Son of Sam's" targets were pretty girls with long, dark hair, and Berkowitz once joked to a female postal worker that she should tie up her hair to avoid becoming one of Sam's victims.

Detectives quoted Berkowitz as saying he killed on command of "Sam," who was described both as Berkowitz' 64-year-old neighbor and as the neighbor's dog.

"I was doing it for Sam. Sam can do anything. I was driven to do it by Sam," officers quoted Berkowitz as saying.

Berkowitz, a stocky Army veteran with a sharpshooter medal, was described by neighbors, co-workers and acquaintances as a loner who often dropped out of sight for days. Co-workers said he was courteous toward women but did not have a girlfriend.

He was an adopted child, and acquaintances said he sought to hide the fact of his parentage.

But Thursday in Brooklyn, Berkowitz stood calmly and silently as authorities identified him as the pyschopathic killer "Son of Sam."

He was charged with second-degree murder, attempted murder, assault and possession of a deadly weapon in "Son of Sam's last attack, July 31. Grand jury indictments were expected Friday.

"You have before you the .44-caliber killer known as Son of Sam," assistant District Attorney Ronald Aiello told Criminal Court Judge Richard Brown at the arraignment.

The judge ordered psychiatric tests for Berkowitz and confined him without bail in maximum security. Berkowitz' attorney, Philip Peltz, told the court his client should "not be at liberty."

Berkowitz, flanked by seven detectives, remained silent, except to say "yes" when the judge called him by name.

Police said Berkowitz earlier made "statements of admission" but declined to characterize them as a confession.

A fully loaded .44-caliber Bulldog revolver found in Berkowitz' car was identified by ballistics experts as the weapon used in all 13 of "Son of Sam's" shootings.

Also found in the car was a .45 caliber semiautomatic and a letter addressed to police and press similar to other taunting messages left by Sam after his attacks.

In addition to the weapons and letter, police found in Berkowitz' cream-colored 1971 Ford Galaxie, a $25-parking ticket that led to Berkowitz' undoing.

ARTIST'S VIEW SHOWS SHUTTLE OF FUTURE CARRYING CREW OF SEVEN
... two man shuttle made 'flawless' free fall flight today

Space shuttle lands, makes easy flight

EDWARDS AFB, Calif. (UPI) — Two astronauts today flew the space shuttle Enterprise off the back of a jumbo jet four miles high to a gliding landing on a desert runway — the first solo flight of America's new space transport.

The black and white delta-winged spaceplane appeared to perform flawlessly with Fred Haise and Gordon Fullerton at the controls, landing smoothly without engines on a dry lake bed at 11:54 a.m. EDT.

In its five minutes of free flight, the Enterprise cleared a major hurdle leading toward the first orbital test of the space shuttle in March, 1979. Never before has a ship, designed to fly in orbit, landed like an airplane.

The stubby spaceship kicked up a great cloud of dust on the sun-baked lake bed as the first of its two sets of rear wheels touched. Seconds later the ship's nose lowered and its front wheel touched.

"It was a beautiful flight," Karol Bobko, radioed the Enterprise pilots from the Mission Control center in Houston.

The Boeing 747 jet with the Enterprise attached in piggyback fashion got off exactly on time, at 11 a.m. EDT. Also on schedule, the seven explosive bolts severed the Enterprise's three links to the plane.

The 75-ton Enterprise broke free from the jet an estimated 23,000 feet above the Mojave desert and quickly banked to the right to clear the specially built high tail of the 747.

The big space ship appeared to float effortlessly upwards when the explosive bolts were fired.

Haise, controlling Enterprise with a vertical stick linked to five computers, then moved the nose over slightly, accelerated and gently leveled off in a practice landing maneuver 20,000 feet in the air.

Haise pushed Enterprise's nose down again and began the first of two sharp left turns to line the space craft up with the runway marked out on the Rogers dry lake.

Enterprise descended rapidly, approaching Edwards AFB on an angle roughly three times steeper than the one followed by commerical airliners. Haise leveled off several hundred feet in the air, dropped the shuttle's wheels and touched down.

Shortly after Enterprise rolled to a stop, technicians inspected the spacecraft, then rolled airport-like stairs up to its hatch.

The two astronauts smiled broadly as they stepped out of their ship at 12:12 p.m. EDT. They shook hands with the technicians around the craft, then inspected Enterprise's nose wheel and walked across the flat lake bed to a waiting car.

The flight was monitored closely by little T38 jet trainers. One beamed close-up television pictures of Enterprise's glide back to the test center.

The flight also was watched by tens of thousands of people from nearby Southern California communities, plus hundreds of reporters and scores of dignitaries. All three networks televised it live.

California restores death penalty

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — The California Legislature, bowing to the will of the voters and rejecting the wishes of Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., restored capital punishment in the state Thursday.

After dramatic and emotional debate, the Assembly voted 54-26 — the exact number needed — to override Brown's "matter-of-conscience" veto of the death penalty bill by Sen. George Deukmejian.

"The civilization that lacks the will to protect itself from the barbarians within its walls is a decadent society," Assemblyman Alister McAlister, floor sponsor of the bill, said. "Our ultimate accountability is not to the governor but to the people and our own conscience."

Other legislators favoring the override echoed McAlister's call to heed the voices of constituents who in 1972 approved an initiative favoring capital punishment.

But Assemblyman Richard Alatorre countered that there are times when political expediency must take a backseat to conscience.

"I believe in representative democracy but at some point in time when it goes contrary to what you believe in, you have to stand up and take your licks," he said.

In Los Angeles, Brown said he was "not surprised" by the veto override.

"I don't believe in the death penalty ...but the legislature has spoken and now it's up to the courts, he said. "As long as it is a valid law I will carry out my responsibility to uphold it."

The new law took effect at 5:22 p.m. Thursday after it was officially entered into California lawbooks.

It permits courts to immediately impose the death penalty for treason and 15 specific murders.

They include murder for hire; murder of a peace officer; murder of a witness to prevent testimony; murder during a felony such as robbery or rape; a second murder conviction; murder by torture; sabotage causing death; perjury resulting in the execution of an innocent person and malicious use of explosives.

Persons under 18 years of age cannot be executed.

The state Supreme Court ruled California's death penalty statute unconstitutional last Dec. 7, declaring that it did not allow for mitigating circumstances. The new law is aimed at meeting both U.S. and state Supreme Court guidelines.

Twin Falls teachers agree to contract

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS—Twin Falls teachers and the district 411 school board reached agreement Thursday on a new master contract.

Agreement between the two parties was reached about 11 p.m. slightly more than 24 hours after mediation sessions began.

Teachers' spokesmen gave credit for the swift resolution in part to federal mediator Tom Curdle, but they saved most of their praise for new school superintendent James Sawin.

Sawin entered the talks Thursday afternoon, after both sides had detailed their version of disputed items for Curdle.

Both sides gave ground in the final agreement.

Teachers made a concession in dropping a demand for binding arbitration as part of the district's grievance procedure.

For their part, the school board agreed to consider hiring additional teachers to reduce classroom size in the district.

Binding arbitration had drawn hard-line board opposition prior to mediation. To have allowed binding arbitration in grievances could have led toward binding arbitration in master agreements on contracts, board members felt.

Twin Falls Education Association (TFEA) president Al Ware termed dropping the demand for binding arbitration a "major concession," but said talks would have stalled otherwise.

"It was creating a hang up that was going to block any movement anywhere. ...," Ware said. "It was stopping us from reaching agreement."

Ware said conversations with Sawin convinced him the proposal "might have a much better chance a few years later."

The TFEA also decided not to reopen salary talks, which would have required backing out of an earlier tentative agreement.

Ware called the lack of movement on salary the "biggest disappointment" in the master agreement, but he said the TFEA "didn't want to break an agreement already signed."

The TFEA had agreed to a salary schedule offering a base pay of $8,600 if the district would raise the base to $9,000 following a successful override tax election designed to add more than $300,000 to district coffers.

That election, however, went down to resounding defeat at the polls, after what some felt was lukewarm support from the board.

Ware refused to comment on whether he felt the TFEA had been misled on the override election, but he said in his view the district would have trouble finding good teachers if it didn't adjust its salaries upward.

For their part, board negotiators made some concession to the TFEA by agreeing to use outside agencies for elementary counseling in place of the counselors the TFEA had asked for. The board also added $1,000 to its $47,000 extra-pay offer, and agreed to provide additional teachers "whenever possible" to cut down class sizes.

The most important outcome of the mediation sessions may have had nothing to do with disputed issues, however.

New superintendent James Sawin made his negotiations debut, and afterwards the TFEA offered nothing but praise, indicating that tensions may ease under Sawin's guidance.

Sawin himself downplayed his role, saying simply, "I interjected myself into the process. I felt the time had arrived I could be helpful in reaching agreement."

Ware, however, attributed the speedy agreement Thursday to Sawin's intervention.

"I think Dr. Sawin was the major part of it," Ware said. "Dr. Sawin understands the process of negotiations. He is convinced the problems we spoke to need solutions."

Ware said a change in attitude was evident on the part of board members after Sawin came into the talks.

"I saw a tremendous change in attitude on the part of the board toward the association," Ware said. "I think by the end of the day we were something much less than the enemy."

Ware said Sawin's assumption of the superintendent's mantle may signal an end to dissension in the district.

"I believe we have a superintendent now we can trust, whose work we can depend on, and a man who is dedicated to solving problems before they become large," Ware concluded.

At Hemingway museum

SEN. FRANK CHURCH, D-Idaho, and Cuban President Castro hold a conversation during a visit to the Ernest Hemingway Museum during the senator's mission to Cuba. Church said Castro, in a gesture of "good will," has agreed to allow the Cuban families of 80 to 100 American citizens to leave Cuba.

Carter after senate backing, Reagan vows to block treaty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter apparently has persuaded two important foes of the Panama Canal treaty to reconsider. But he will have to make significant inroads among moderate Republicans to win Senate approval for the pact.

Sen. Barry Goldwater was reported to have modified his past opposition to the treaty which negotiators Ellsworth Bunker and Sol Linowitz presented the chief executive Thursday.

And Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd — also an original opponent — said through an aide he has "an open mind" about the accord pending Senate Foreign Relations Committee hearings on it later.

A two-thirds majority in the Senate is required for ratification. Although there are 62 Democrats, a number of Southern conservatives are expected to desert Carter on this issue and they will have to be offset with GOP votes.

Meanwhile, former California Gov. Ronald Reagan has promised to lead an effort by a coalition of conservatives to block Senate ratification of the Carter Administration's Panama Canal treaty, the Miami Herald reported today.

In a dispatch from its Washington bureau, the Herald said leaders of about a dozen conservative organizations met to draft strategy for the massive opposition campaign even before the treaty was signed in Panama City.

"While the campaign is being led by Republicans," Saul Friedman of the newspaper's Washington bureau wrote, "it is aimed at rallying all conservatives to block the treaty...

"Reagan, a busy banquet speaker and the most popular and influential fund raiser in Republican circles, has promised to take the lead in opposing a new treaty," the Herald said.

Reagan, in his campaign for the GOP nomination opposed ceding the Panama Canal and accused the Ford administration of negotiating its transfer to Panama.

The Herald identified as "groups expected to take part" the American Conservative Union, the Conservative Caucus, the National Conservative Political Action Committee, Heritage Foundation and Citizens for the Republic. The latter group was formed from the Reagan campaign organization after his unsuccessful bid for the GOP presidential nomination last year.

(Officials of the American Conservative Union told UPI in Washington they were unaware of any meetings with Reagan concerning the canal treaty, but added that the organization's leader, Rep. Philip Crane, R-Ill., is on vacation.)

The plan will involve "huge mailings, a nationwide lobbying effort aimed at Congress...and perhaps a march on Washington," the Herald said.

It quoted John Laxalt, who runs the Citizens for the Republic Washington office, as saying Reagan "will assume a point position" in the effort.

The Herald said among those who attended the conservatives' canal treaty strategy meeting was Paul Russo, who works for Campaign Director Charles Black of the Republican National Committee.

The newspaper quoted Howard Phillips, a former Nixon Administration official now with the Conservative Caucus, as saying conservative groups often at odds "are unanimous in their opposition to the canal treaty."

The Herald said conservatives expect GOP National Chairman William Brock, Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker, R-Tenn., and House Minority Leader John Rhodes, R-Ariz., will be forced to join in the canal opposition even though former President Ford has advocated a canal treaty.

Church back in U.S.A., praises 'friend' Castro

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, home from a six-day trip to Cuba, says he has found a friend in Fidel Castro and believes further relations with Havana now rest with "the ball ...in the U.S. court."

Church returned to Washington Thursday night praising Castro's "humanitarian gesture" to permit the exodus of the families of nearly 100 Americans still living on the island.

The Idaho Democrat, a top-ranking member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he hopes to meet as soon as possible with President Carter to brief him on the discussions with the Cuban leader.

"The ball is now in the U.S. court, ...even though Castro never asked me to ask President Carter to do anything in return" for the families' release, Church said.

He said he was surprised by Castro's "lack of bitterness" toward the United States, and said, "I leave with the impression I have found a friend."

In another gesture designed to further the gradual normalization of U.S.-Cuba relations, Church said Castro released two American boats, and their American crews, that were seized recently in Cuban waters.

One of those vessels, the "Nita Sue," was seized June 20 with a cargo of marijuana. Its two Miami crew members were Donnie Rebozo, a relative of Richard Nixon's friend Bebe Rebozo and Byron Moore, whose wife is suffering from cancer.

While Castro did make some concessions, Church told reporters the Cuban president is not ready to release seven American prisoners being held on political charges.

Church also stressed that ideological differences between the two countries would continue because "the Cuban way is not our way and can never be.... The Cubans must find their own answers."

The agreement to allow the Cuban families of Americans to leave the island represented "an important gesture of good will by President Castro," Church said.

The families have been forbidden to leave Cuba, although their U.S. spouses were free to go. The new agreement will allow the Cuban relatives to travel to the United States.

Police without slayings clue

SEASIDE, Calif. (UPI) — Police worked without benefit of a weapon, a suspect or a motive Thursday in trying to trace the killer of an all-female family of four, all found stabbed to death in their apartment three blocks from the police department.

Two women and a girl were found dead in the kitchen of the detached living unit in a low-income section of this Monterey Peninsula community shortly before 6 a.m.

The body of a fourth victim, a 15-year-old girl, was found in the bedroom with her hands tied behind her.

The victims were Josephine Smith, 60, her daughter, Suzanne Harris, 28, Rachael Harris, 5 or 6, who was Suzanne Harris' daughter — all found in the kitchen — and Rene Ferguson, the teen-ager, also a granddaughter of Mrs. Smith, who was found in the bedroom. A coroner's investigation was under way checking for evidence of rape.

Investigators said the killer apparently wielded a knife but they found no weapon. They had no suspect in custody and knew of no motive.

"Right now we're just talking to friends, relatives and acquaintances trying to piece together a background picture of the family," police commander in charge Bill Gullett said. Officers were seeking information from relatives of Mrs. Smith who live nearby, among others.

'Butcher of Riga' suspect found

ASUNCION, Paraguay (UPI) — A man believed to be the Nazi SS captain known as the "Butcher of Riga" for his role in the massacre of 30,000 Jews has died in a prisoner's hospital in this remote South American capital.

A spokesman at the Clinical Hospital for Indigents said Thursday that West German authorities were working to determine whether the man who died at the hospital Wednesday was Nazi war criminal Eduard Roschmann.

As an SS captain in the Jewish ghetto of Riga, Latvia, Roschmann ordered the killing of 40,000 Jews and in many cases "pulled the trigger himself," according to West German public prosecutor Friedrich Beck.

The man who checked into the hospital July 24 complaining of a lung ailment had an Argentine identity card in the name of Federico Bernardo Wegener — one of the aliases Roschmann was known to use — and matched his description.

He died Wednesday of a heart attack, the hospital spokesman said.

Prosecutor Beck, working for the War Crimes Tribunal in Hamburg, requested Roschmann's extradition from Argentina last October. On July 4 Argentine officials said they would take favorable action on the request.

Riders flock to Pioneer

SEATTLE (UPI) — Amtrak's experimental new train between Seattle and Salt Lake City, the Pioneer, is carrying more passengers than officials had expected.

Art Lloyd, an Amtrak spokesman, said the train was averaging more than 120 passengers a day and needed to average between 80 and 100 to make the run efficient on the basis of fuel consumed.

"Monday, which is usually one of the bad days, we left Seattle with 170 passengers and Portland with 184," he said.

Lloyd said projections indicate the Pioneer will continue to be successful even in the winter.

However, for the first time the Seattle-Chicago Empire Builder will be cut back to four runs a week because of the drop in passengers in September, he said.

The North Coast Hiawatha, operated daily in the summer, normally reverts to three-weekly service in the fall.

Lloyd said the Seattle-Vancouver, B.C., run showed a 30 per cent increase in passengers in July, compared to July 1976 figures.

Nationally, he said passengers were up 7.8 per cent.

Young 'raises hell'

No money for dictators who pull fingernails

PORT-OF-SPAIN, Trinidad (UPI) — U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young says America will not prop up dictatorships that "pull people's fingernails out," and he doesn't mind "raising a little hell" with those regimes.

Young, who met Thursday with Trinidad Prime Minister Eric Williams, planned to fly to Caracas, Venezuela, today for the seventh stop of his 10-nation tour of the Caribbean basin.

Young and Williams, who has ruled this oil-rich island nation since 1956, avoided reporters after their chat, but the ambassador opened up at a televised "Town Meeting" with about 30 prominent Trinidadians.

Defending President Carter's human rights campaign, Young said Americans do not want their tax money spent on dictatorships that "pull peoples' fingernails out or hang people by their toes and pour water into their nose."

"The people of the United States don't want their money to be blood money."

Young said he was not bothered by Soviet charges that Carter's human rights drive is an attempt to meddle in other nations' internal affairs.

"I dont even react to that," he said. "So what? We're doing it all out in the open. There are things that are more important than national sovereignty, and I don't mind raising a little hell about it."

Young told the Town Meeting that Carter is making more gains by pursuing a policy of cooperation with the East, but was immediately asked how he could say that in view of the ILO dispute.

The ambassador acknowledged a U.S. withdrawal from the ILO would be "continued confrontation" of the type he said was practiced by former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and "not in the interest of the United States."

But Young added he had to be careful of how he commented on the issue because there were "egos at stake" — an apparent reference to AFL-CIO chief George Meany — and reporters were jotting down his words.

Spanish rightists claim theft

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — An obscure right-wing group has claimed it plundered the priceless treasures of Oviedo Cathedral to "prevent them from falling into Communist hands," the El Pais newspaper said today.

In a telephone message to El Pais, the group called itself the "Iberian Anticommunist Alliance" and said it will return to the type of government set up by the late dictator Francisco Franco.

The tape-recorded message, telephoned twice to the newspaper offices, said the theft Tuesday night was committed by the Alliance's "Commando Generalissimo Francisco Franco."

The artifacts — reportedly worth anywhere between $5,900 to $250 million — were either stolen or picked clean of their jewels by four thieves who broke into the treasure room of the Roman Catholic cathedral.

Oviedo Province officials have said that while the material value of the stolen gold and gems might be "relatively small," — as little as $5,900 — no price could be put on the artistic, religious and historical value of the 9th- and 10th-century objects.

A Roman Catholic newspaper Thursday put the objects' value at nearly one quarter of a billion dollars. The national news agency Cifra put their value at $59 million.

El Pais said it received the following taped message twice in anonymous telephone calls:

"The theft of jewels from Oviedo Cathedral has been carried out by the Iberian Anticommunist Alliance and is based on the following points:

"We want to prevent that the religious treasures fall into Communist hands.

"The day Spain has a government like the one of Generalissimo Franco, the treasure will be returned.

"We must avoid all bloodshed.

"The Commando Generalissimo Francisco Franco has carried out this operation, and the jewels are in a safe place outside Spain. It does not matter what the police do, there is no danger."

Franco ruled Spain with an iron fist from the end of the 1936-1939 Civil War until his death in November, 1975. His successor, King Juan Carlos, instituted a number of democratic reforms and last June 15 Spain held its first free parliamentary elections in nearly 40 years.

Vietnam probes U.S. 'war crimes'

HONG KONG (UPI) — Vietnam has opened an investigation of alleged American war crimes in Saigon, now called Ho Chi Minh City, a Vietnamese radio broadcast said Thursday night.

"The investigation aims at obtaining complete and systematic statistics on the number of people killed, wounded and incapacitated by the U.S. war, the damages to the property of the people and public utilities, including churches and pagodas, and the social vices caused by the U.S. imperialists during the war years," the broadcast said.

The war years were listed as from July 30, 1954, to April 30, 1975.

The radio said the investigation would also cover the postwar period — from May, 1975, to June 10, 1977 — and would "include the number of people killed, wounded or incapacitated by bombs, mines and shells left by the U.S. puppet armed forces."

The month-long investigation is being conducted by the Ho Chi Minh People's Committee, which called on the city's inhabitants to "to make their active contribution."

Another broadcast said crime was still a serious problem in Saigon, but "security forces have arrested many professional burglars, robbers and hoodlums and have rehabilitated many gangs of drug addicts and prostitutes — serious social vices left behind by the former regime."

It said robbery and murder had decreased by 20 per cent over the past two months.

Palestinians claim Israelis repelled

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Palestinian officials said their guerrilla forces repelled four rocket-supported Israeli tank attacks on the Lebanese border village of Yarin early today.

The claim was made amid growing Palestinian and Arab fears of widenened Israeli military intervention in the escalating fighting in southern Lebanon.

"At 4:30 a.m., the Israelis started shelling border villages including Yarin," a Palestinian official said.

"They used direct shelling by tanks and 155mm cannon and rockets," the official said. "Israeli forces and tanks then attempted to advance on Yarin."

Yarin, straddling the frontier, was attacked and briefly occupied by Israeli forces last month, reports from the south said.

"Our forces repelled the attack (early Friday) inflicted losses on the enemy and destroyed one tank. Our forces fought off three more Israeli attacks a little later," the official said.

He gave no further details.

Hansen's trip may free Tom McGinnis

Tom McGinnis could be out of jail before Christmas.

The 27-year-old Idahoan, imprisoned for more than a year in La Paz, Bolivia, has caught the attention of Idaho's congressional delegation.

In two weeks, Rep. George Hansen flies to Bolivia to talk with judges and legislators in the South American country about releasing the apparently falsely held young man.

Hansen's trip to Bolivia is precisely the kind of congressional pressure which can speed up the molasses-like judicial process which keeps young McGinnis in jail.

In June, 1976, Tom McGinnis was arrested in Bolivia and charged with violating Bolivian drug laws. McGinnis didn't have drugs in his possession when arrested and repeatedly has professed his innocence.

The U.S. State Department hasn't done much to facilitate the release of Tom McGinnis and the family of the Idaho man recently publicized Tom's plight after getting no help from State.

Now, the more publicity the Tom McGinnis case receives, the more likely Bolivian judges will release the man simply to get their country out of the spotlight.

George Hansen's trip to Bolivia will win him some friends in Idaho.

But the trip will do more than that. It will show Bolivian officials they can no longer play dumb in the Tom McGinnis case.

The injustice of Tom's imprisonment is known throughout Idaho and once Rep. Hansen returns from Bolivia, Tom's unfair confinement should be better known in Washington.

...he lid of secrecy off the Tom McGinnis ...st hope the imprisoned Idaho man has ...will be out of jail and back home where ...

...ge is OK.

... many other drivers in a hurry, Fifth District Judge James Cunningham sped through Shoshone on Highway 93 a few days ago on his way back to Twin Falls.

There on a side street waited Idaho State Police officer John Gould.

With blue lights flashing, policeman Gould pulled ... Cunningham off to the side of the road on the ... Shoshone and noted the judge had been ... miles per hour-in-a-25-mile per hour ...

... result was a speeding ticket.

Other judges have been arrested for speeding in Idaho. Sometimes they have slipped quietly off the hook.

Judge Cunningham didn't slip off.

He convened his own courtroom and ordered himself fined a total of $26.50 for speeding.

He pleaded no contest and paid the fine.

As he explained later, Cunningham said he didn't think elected officials should expect to get away with anything the average citizen couldn't avoid.

That's an honorable statement from a judge. Cunningham backed up his words by paying the symbolic $26.50.

Seeing a judge take the same medicine he dishes out puts a nice shine on the judicial process.

Carter blows on peace fires

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Just barely to keep alive his once-bright hopes to bring peace to the Mideast, President Carter has now been reduced to a series of intricate strategems that seem preposterous for normal diplomacy.

The major reason for this diplomacy by strategem is the clear warning from powerful members of Congress of both parties that public pressure on Israel by Mr. Carter would be counterproductive if not politically suicidal.

These warnings have been conveyed privately to the President, effectively foreclosing the most potent single weapon the U.S. has in its day-to-day diplomacy: the lever of presidential pressure, dramatizing major differences between U.S. interests and Israeli interests in the dangerous Middle East.

The most important strategem now under private consideration — essential if the President's peace plan is to survive the next few weeks — is to invent some way to bring the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) into the peace game despite Israel's Geneva conference veto.

Under consideration is a far-out plan to bypass the Geneva conference altogether and switch the action somewhere else — perhaps as an added attraction for this fall's session of the United Nations General Assembly.

The reason for this switch: a 1975 commitment given in secret (but soon leaked to the press) by then-Secretary of State Henry Kissinger. Kissinger pledged to Israel an absolute right of veto over PLO attendance at Geneva.

Since overt White House pressure against Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin to nullify this pledge would boomerang, Mr. Carter may be forced to move the Arab-Israeli peace conference in a strategem designed to get around an Israeli veto.

But first Mr. Carter must be able to justify the claim of the PLO to attend a peace conference as representatives of the one million West Bank and Gaza Arabs now living under Israeli military occupation. For that, the President has to gain the PLO's acceptance of Israel as a permanent state.

That leads to the second diplomatic strategem — a subtle change in wording that Mr. Carter used for the first time last week to nudge the PLO into accepting Israel as a state.

In the past, the U.S. has said that "unless" the PLO endorsed United Nations Resolution 242 (thereby signaling acceptance of Israel) the U.S. would not even consider dealing with it or sponsoring its presence at peace talks.

But without public announcement, Mr. Carter subtly changed that formulation last week. He now says that "if" the PLO accepts Resolution 242 the U.S. would "immediately" open direct talks with it. That would lead to U.S. support of the PLO at peace talks with Syria, Egypt, Jordan and Israel.

Carter's switch from "unless" to the more positive "if" was calculated for its impact on Saudi Arabia, back-stage power broker in the Mideast peace game. The President, both in his Time magazine interview last week and in his Saturday press conference in Plains, thus sent the Saudis this signal: if they would intensify the effort by moderate Arab governments to persuade the PLO to accept Resolution 242, the U.S. would promptly start dealing directly with the PLO and bring it into peace negotiations.

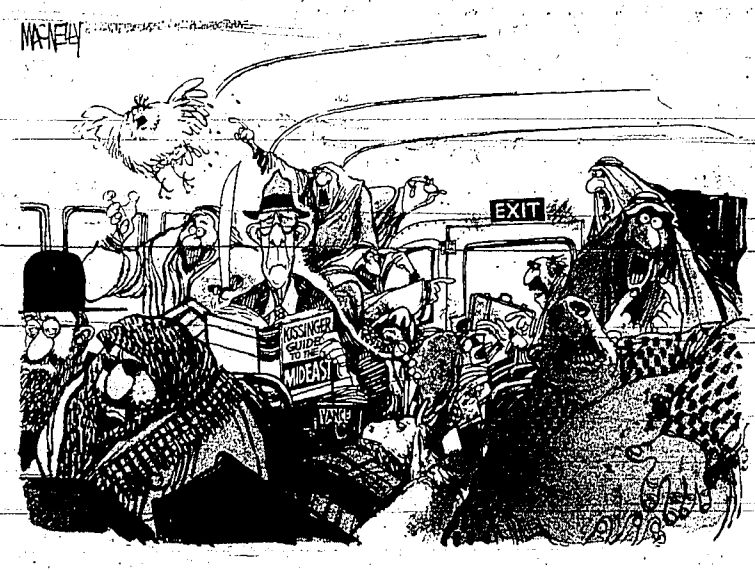

That presidential signal was quickly seized on by the Saudis, who informed Secretary of State Cyrus Vance when he arrived in Saudi Arabia that the PLO was close to a possible change.

That the mighty U.S. must have recourse to such strategems tells much about its political weakness when trying to turn the fables on Israel.

Discovery of this fact may be President Carter's principal accomplishment so far in trying desperately hard to write a fair formula that would end the cycle of war in the Middle East. He started with a grand design and courageously built his case to climax at a reconvened Geneva conference in October.

He has now been brought hard to earth by the Israeli reality, and is reduced to subtle strategems and murky machinations.

Kidwell seems politically disenchanted

By RICHARD CHARNOCK

BOISE (UPI) — Attorney General Wayne Kidwell sounds like a poker player who has tired of the game and is ready to cash in his chips.

Kidwell startled a lot of politicians last week when he announced he will not seek the Republican nomination for governor and followed that announcement with a blast at his erstwhile opponents, some of their potential backers and the news media.

He left the door open to run again for attorney general but, after his post-announcement statements, kept it just barely ajar. Even a light wind could slam it shut on him.

And, not too surprisingly to some who have talked with him about politics the past few months, Kidwell seems unconcerned about it all. In fact, he appears very much to be a young man so disenchanted with the political arena that he is stepping out of it — possibly for good.

Some time ago, Kidwell said if he ever became so turned off by politics that he was ready to try some other work he might give candid answers about the process and those who make it work should newsmen ask him the right questions.

From what he said to some reporters last week it just could be that that time has come.

He hasn't removed himself entirely from political contention next year. He has kept a committee to handle finances for a possible re-election bid. But he has said he will return all large campaign contributions to persons who thought they were backing a potential candidate for governor.

And, in a series of interviews in a single day, he has managed to alienate a lot of folks who might have backed him for that or, for that matter, for attorney general. So, the question arises, why?

It could be that Kidwell viewed himself as a front-runner who just possibly had no chance of winning. He has said even privately that, with a hard battle, he probably could win the primary and possibly even the general election for governor.

But even the attorney general conceded it would be uphill.

First, as attorney general he has managed through consumer protection and other legal action to cross some of the state's leading industrialists — something that does not endear them to an official bearing a Republican tag.

Then, he finally cracked down — after repeated warnings — on political candidates who did not comply with campaign finance reporting provisions of the Sunshine Act. He stepped on some more GOP toes, even though he simply was doing what the law required.

Next, he has managed for reasons that escape some reporters to run afoul of the news media. One newsman about six months ago accused Kidwell of "headline grabbing" and that line has become almost a weekly slogan among those who analyze the attorney general and what he does.

He complains that virtually everything he does — even the good things — is subject to intense scrutiny by newsmen. He probably is right. Yet, the same reporters who complain he seeks out headlines are the first to take advantage of his unusual availability for interviews and his candor about issues on which he better would be served by silence.

Several months ago UPI learned that Kidwell was considering an offer from the private sector — one that could pull him out of office even before his term expired. He took it seriously enough, the report said, that he consulted several friends about it privately.

Kidwell turned down the offer because, among other reasons, a Democrat governor would name his successor as attorney general. He wasn't exactly eager to talk about it but answered queries with a candor that got him more brickbats.

One of the reasons he considered the offer was the kind of money he could make in private enterprise as opposed to his $25,000 salary; one considered low for any good lawyer with experience. Kidwell is the first to acknowledge that he knew what the salary would be when he ran for the office but he found it frustrating nonetheless.

Another reason he considered it and probably one of his considerations when he decided against running for governor is his age. He is 38. If he is going to establish himself either in private practice or in business he has to get moving. If he were to run for governor and win — even two terms, say — what would he do in his late 40's if there were no cabinet post available for him or some other top job such as United States senator for which he had a chance?

He still, of course, could try to reestablish a law practice or try to start a business. But that isn't the easiest thing to do on the whispering side of 50.

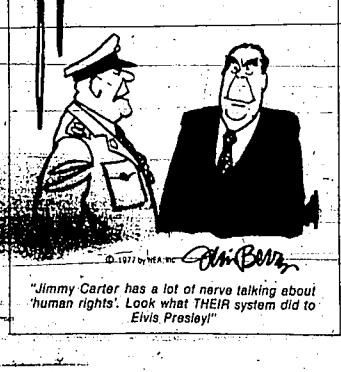

These factors, combined with some of the problems associated with remaining in the political arena, may be enough to push him toward the private sector again — possibly even out of law and directly into the business world.

And it just could be that he wanted it that way and said what he did to make certain he wouldn't weaken his resolve.

Bribes seen as Korea's thank you

WASHINGTON — Not everyone in Washington is upset about the South Korean bribery scandal. Feiderman thinks Congress and the Justice Department are barking up the wrong tree.

"Look," he told me. "The U.S. has given away billions of dollars in foreign aid to countries all over the world and have you ever heard anyone say as much as a "Thank you"? So South Korea, through its own CIA, decides it wants to show its gratitude to some of the congressmen who made the aid to them possible. And everybody starts screaming like they've done something wrong."

"But giving money to congressmen could, in some circles, be considered a bribe," I said.

"That's ridiculous. The last thing the South Koreans would want to do is bribe an American congressman with money or gifts or entertainment or girls. Those honorable elected officials on the Hill would never accept anything if they thought there were any strings attached.

"All the South Koreans were saying was 'We humbly thank you for all you have done for our humble country with this humble gift which we only wish could be humbly more.'

"No matter what spirit the money was given in it still looks like a bribe," I insisted.

"That's because you're cynical about true friendship. The South Koreans have been giving gifts and money for thousands of years. It is part of their tradition and you insult them if you refuse their presents. We're not in a position to offend a staunch ally."

I stuck to my guns. "It's still not kosher."

"Nothing in South Korea is," Feiderman said. "But let me ask you this. After all we've done for France, have they ever given our congressmen so much as a free bottle of perfume? What about West Germany?

We put her back on her feet and do any of their secret service people come around handing out plain brown envelopes with German marks? And while we're at it, you would think the least the Japanese CIA could do for Congress is give each of them a Sony television set. But only little South Korea thought of returning some of the largesse we laid on them.

"All the South Koreans are the only ones who recycled our foreign aid money, bringing joy and jobs to Washington. The thing I admire most about them is that they did it for so long, and so quietly, and without fanfare."

"That's true," I said. "But what about Tongsun Park? He certainly didn't stay out of the news."

"Tongsun was a great American," Feiderman said.

"He was not. He was a great South Korean," I protested.

"Well, anyhow he was a great host. He filled an entertainment void in this town at the height of Watergate. He wined and dined the House leadership in their darkest hours. He could have kept the commissions he made on rice sales to himself. But he chose to spread the money around. Why?"

"So he could influence our leaders?"

"You're wrong. He did it because that is the way things are done in the Korean culture. To a Korean, a man is your friend, whether he be the highest chairman of a U.S. Congressional committee or the lowest three-star general in the Pentagon. Once he becomes your friend you must bestow presents on him. The worst way for a Korean to lose face is to hand an envelope stuffed with $100 bills to an American visitor, and have it returned by the U.S. ambassador the next day. When this happens he can never face his superiors again."

"Feiderman, let me ask you one last question. Do you happen to work as a lobbyist for the South Korean government?"

He grinned from ear to ear. "You'll have to admit — it's not a bad account."

Nixons visit school

CERRITOS, Calif. (UPI) — Former President Richard Nixon and his wife made one of their rare public appearances this week, dropping in at the Pat Nixon Elementary School for a 20-minute visit with the staff and summer school students.

Mrs. Nixon said she wanted to have another look at the wishing well she dedicated two years ago, teachers said. The former first lady grew up and attended school here.

Most of those who have seen Mrs. Nixon lately say she still shows traces of muscle weakness from the stroke she suffered last year, but school principal Margaret Skilling-Sibner described her as "looking super, tan and fit."

Threat diverts plane

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — A Delta Airlines 727 jetliner, with actress Elizabeth Taylor and her husband John Warner reportedly aboard, was diverted to Douglas Municipal Airport Thursday after a passenger found a bomb threat scribbled in soap on the plane's bathroom mirror.

The plane, en route from Atlanta to Washington, was diverted to Charlotte about 2 p.m. and was held several hours while authorities searched the plane thoroughly, but did not find a bomb.

Authorities believe someone aboard the plane left the message as a hoax, and the FBI interviewed all 113 passengers aboard the flight.

Comic files suit

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Comic Paul Lynde was sued Thursday by Thomas McCauley, who accused Lynde of reneging on an agreement to publicize McCauley's skill as a weight reducing coach.

McCauley, a former heavyweight boxer, demanded more than $1.5 million damages, saying he and Lynde had a contract under which Lynde would repay him for help in losing weight by publicly giving him credit.

Lucy to visit prison

TIJUANA, Mexico (UPI) — Patrick Lucy, former governor of Wisconsin and now ambassador to Mexico, will visit Americans in a Mexican prison Saturday.

Lucey will visit the La Mesa penitentiary in this city on the California border to talk to the 41 U.S. citizens held there.

.44-caliber revolver traced

Shop manager says he's not responsible

HOUSTON (UPI) — The pawn shop manager who sold the gun used in the New York City Son of Sam slayings says he feels people want to hold him "personally responsible" for the way the weapon was used.

"It kind of makes me have a funny feeling," said Bill Wheeler, manager of the Spring Branch Jewelry and Loan Co. "I didn't know that the thing was going to be used for that or I wouldn't have sold it.

"I feel like people are wanting me to feel I'm personally responsible. like maybe I should apologize to these people. I don't feel I am. It was just another sale during the course of business and it turned up somewhere it shouldn't."

Federal firearms agents said Thursday the Charter Arms Co. "Bulldog" .44-caliber revolver used by Son of Sam was sold at the Houston pawnshop in June 1976. The first shooting attributed to "Son of Sam" occurred July 29, 1976.

Son of Sam suspect David Berkowitz, 24, told New York police an Army buddy gave him the gun.

W.M. Rothgeb, Houston agent-in-charge of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, said the buyer of the gun was a 24-year-old Houston man. The man was not charged and his name was withheld under federal privacy laws.

Rothgeb said the gun could have been stolen or could have left Houston "legitimately" in the personal possession of the owner. But he said federal law could have been violated if the gun was shipped or mailed across state lines.

"We're going to look into it. Since Berkowitz was in New York and there is a law against sale or gift or delivery of handguns to someone out-of-state (by mail or shipper)," said Rothgeb.

Rothgeb said the maximum penalty for violation is five years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

A woman reached by telephone at the address of the gun-buyer said, "My son is innocent. He has a job. I'm not going to tell you where. He comes home. He lives with us.

"I'm sure the police will want to talk to my son. We don't mind that at all. We are not afraid of the police. My son is not running and never will. When he talks to the police, then I'll talk."

Wheeler did not remember selling the five-shot, doubleaction revolver, but his records show he bought it wholesale in Dallas in 1974 and sold it for $125 two years later.

Dr. Chapman to speak

TWIN FALLS—Dr. James Chapman, president of West Liberty State College, West Liberty, Va., will be guest speaker at the First Church of the Nazarene Sunday, Aug. 14 at 11 a.m.

Chapman was field representative and business manager for Roberts College in New York for several years.

For the past eight years, he has been the leader of West Liberty State College. He is an ordained minister.

Sunday evening at 6 p.m. a special missionary film, "To Wipe A Tear," will be shown to all interested.

This week Pastor Chastain has been attending a Pastor's Leadership Training Conference at Northwest Nazarene College, being held to keep local pastors current of the changing trends of needs in the spiritual world.

Stu Murrell gives talk

WENDELL—Stu Murrell from the Idaho Fish and Game Department will be the guest speaker at the Wendell Free Methodist Church for the Sunday School Hour at 9:30 a.m. on Aug. 14.

Murrell will speak on his work with fishing in the state which will tie in with the theme of the 1977 Fall Enlargement Campaign of the Sunday School which is "Fishers of Men."

The eight-week campaign will include such features as a casting contest and minnow Sunday. A poster and theme song contest will also be held.

Pastor Ted Lux is currently preaching at the Legion Hall in Wendell at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. each Sunday. Wednesday evening prayer and Bible study meeting are also held at the hall.

The public is invited to attend all services.

Study of church slated

EDEN—The Eden Seventh Day Adventist Church will study a lesson entitled "To Build Up the Church" during Sabbath School.

This lesson deals with worship, organization, management and ministry of the church and is based on 1 Cor. 12:26.

Sabbath School begins at 9:30 a.m. and is under the leadership of Betty Carlson. The worship hour is 11 a.m.

The community is invited to listen to "The Quiet Hour" Sunday mornings at 8 a.m. on KTLC (formerly KTFI). This broadcast from California consists of gospel music and messages from the Bible.

Presbyterian service set

TWIN FALLS—Rev. Robert Van Nest will give the junior sermon and speak to adults on "Everybody's Selling Something," at the 10 a.m. worship service in the First United Presbyterian Church of Twin Falls.

Special music will be offered by Rip Gerdes who will sing, "Dear Lord and Father."

Childcare is provided for the very young. The church is located at 209 Fifth Avenue North. Sunday school begins at 9:30 a.m. and the morning worship is at 11 a.m.

Klemin to give seminar

WENDELL—A home and heart seminar, with Rev. and Mrs. John Klemin, will be held at the United Pentecostal Church, 146 Pocatello Street, Wendell, on Aug. 12, 13 and 14.

Rev. Klemin is president of Conquerors Bible College in Portland, Ore.

The seminars will be held at 7:30 p.m. on the 12th and 13th and at the time of regular services on the 14th.

Topics of discussion will include the Christian home, spiritual life, guidance and how you can tell if it is God, facing disappointments, and the things that God hides.

The public is invited to attend.

Bible school to begin

TWIN FALLS—The Community Christian Church will hold a five-session Daily Vacation Bible School Aug. 15 through 19 from 9 to 11:30 a.m.

The theme will be "Christ Our Guide to True Adventure."

Activities include lessons, crafts, recreation and refreshments and a family potluck picnic Friday at 6:30 p.m. with the students presenting a program of skits, songs and stunts and displaying their handiwork.

There will be no registration fee and everyone is welcome.

The church is located on Grandview Drive next to the Grandview Drive-In Theatre.

'Soul' title of sermon

TWIN FALLS—"Soul" is the title of the lesson-sermon at the Christian Science Church this Sunday.

Sunday school begins at 9:45 a.m. and church services are at 11 a.m. Sunday and 8 p.m. Wednesday at the church, 160 Ninth Avenue East.

The reading room, 352 Main Avenue South, is open from noon to 4 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Sermon set for drive-in

TWIN FALLS—"The Compassion of Jesus" will be the sermon topic at the drive-in church this Sunday.

Minister will be Lyle Arnold from the First United Brethren Church, and pianist will be Mrs. Norma Jean Requa.

Soloists include Carman Prunty and Mrs. Joseph Maddocks.

Services are held at the Motor-Vu Drive-In Theatre each Sunday at 8 a.m.

Music group to perform

THE Krocse Brothers will appear at the First Assembly of God Church, 180 North Locust, on Aug. 21 at 7:30 p.m. The evangelistic team from Everett, Wash., speaks weekly across the United States on their radio and television programs. They have also appeared on other television programs, including Rev. Rex Humbard's Cathedral of Tomorrow. The group consists of Billy, his wife, Sandra, and their two daughters, and Johnny and his wife, Kowanda, and their son. Their variety of gospel music includes singing with accordian, organ, piano, guitar, banjo, mandolin, bazuka and bass fiddle. The group has produced several long play albums. There will be no admission charge.

Graham defends financial operations

DAVID E. ANDERSON
UPI Religion Writer

Evangelist Billy Graham today defended the financial operations of his organizations and denied there were any secret funds.

In a six-page statement, Graham said the controversial World Evangelism and Christian Education Fund is audited annually, is on file with the Internal Revenue Service and "has been on the public record since its inception — open for all to inspect — but it has not been publicized."

"I can assure you," Graham said, "that your contributions are handled legally and with the highest sense of Christian ethics and spiritual concern."

The statement was issued from Graham in Minneapolis, Minn., headquarters of his primary organization, the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association.

A recent series of stories in the Charlotte, N.C., Observer said Graham's WECEF fund had accumulated some $23 million and was keeping it in secret.

"When we began our evangelistic ministry almost all evangelists were supported by voluntary 'love' offerings,'" Graham said. "Occasionally this led to financial abuses, and in the minds of many people mass evangelism came to be associated with an 'Elmer Gantry'...image of financial irresponsibility.

"We set out to change this image...."

Graham said all the finances of the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association are under the supervision of a board of directors and that no paid employes, including himself, sit on the board's executive committee.

One of the major aims of the fund is the construction of a major evangelism training center at Wheaton College in Illinois, he said.

Graham said WECEF was set up in 1970 as a "special fund to undergird evangelical ministries" but that it was not publicized because publicity would be contrary to Scripture and mean "we would be inundated with requests for help which we could not begin to meet."

"We have insisted on the highest possible standards of financial ethics, business procedures, and spiritual principles in the business affairs of our Evangelistic Association," he said.

"We have taken extra precautions to be certain that everything is done with complete integrity so no dishonor might come to the name of Christ. Our books are audited every year by one of America's largest accounting firms."

Catholic Church says 'Soap' should be removed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Roman Catholic church's communications agency said today the controversial television program "Soap" should "be removed from family television entertainment."

The communication division of the U.S. Catholic Conference, the action arm of the nation's Roman Catholic bishops, said "action is needed to prevent this new debasement of the medium through a contempt for human beings,"....

"Soap" has become one of the most talked about programs scheduled for this year's fall lineup. ABC has scheduled the adult comedy satire on daytime soap operas, with reported heavy emphasis on sex.

The Catholic statement said the proposed program "is in direct contradiction with the National Association of Broadcasters' Television Code Review Board code and television's traditional status as a family medium."

It called on the NAB to "alter the language of the code" to reassert that status.

Referring to the fact that ABC had withdrawn two episodes to "sanitize" them, the Catholic statement said "ABC seems to be running a shell game. Now you see it. Now you don't.

"Criticism based on the original 'Soap' episodes, which a number of Catholic officials have viewed, is now conveniently made to seem invalid," the USCC said.

The Catholic statement, issued by Robert B. Beusse, USCC Secretary for communication, said Catholics should work on an interfaith basis on a local level "to achieve a program schedule that truly serves the community's needs."

"The business community has a special responsibility for the quality of commercial broadcasting," the statement said.

Court rules Quakers should pay more in damages

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal appeals court ruled Wednesday that 27 Quakers arrested illegally during a 1971 prayer vigil in front of the White House should get more than a "niggardly" $100 apeice in damages.

The Quakers had obtained a permit to hold the April 25 sidewalk vigil to call for a change in President Richard Nixon's Vietnam war policies. But when persons thought to be "outsiders" joined them, police ordered participants to disperse and arrested those who refused to leave.

A U.S. District Court judge ruled March 13, 1974, the arrests were unlawful. The Quakers sought damages totaling $775,000, but the judge ordered the District of Columbia to pay only $100 in compensatory damages to each person who had been arrested plus $64 to one man for loss of wages.

U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals Judges J. Skelly Wright, Harold Leventhal and Malcolm Wilkey disagreed with the lower court's conclusion the publicity sought by those holding the vigil was increased by their arrests and, therefore, they were "not greatly aggrieved."

BARRY McGUIRE
. . . concert set

McGuire to perform at center

TWIN FALLS — Barry McGuire, folk-gospel singer and performer, will appear in concert at the Christian Center, 181 Morrison Street, Twin Falls, on Friday, Aug. 19 at 8 p.m.

McGuire first received national acclaim in 1961 as a founding member of the New Christy Minstrels. With this group he recorded his first two million-selling songs, "Green Green" and "Greenback Dollar."

In 1965, he left the group and recorded a song that lit the fuse to a smoldering counterculture. "The Eve of Destruction" became McGuire's third hit, and he immediately became one of the counterculture's chief spokesmen.

He was the male lead in the hit Broadway musical "Hair."

In 1971, McGuire decided to change his life. He became a Christian and his life and music changed.

Today McGuire concerts are no longer negative. He wishes to concentrate on the hope and promoise of tomorrow rather than the despair of the past.

McGuire has released five albums since 1971, including his most recent and personal favorite, "Have You Heard?" Other albums include "Seeds," "Lighten Up," "To the Bride" and "C'mon Along."

There will be no admission charge to the concert, but a free-will offering will be taken. Those planning to attend should arrive early to obtain a good seat.

The concert is being presented by The Way Station Ministries.

Contest set

SALT LAKE CITY — KTVX Channel 4 has joined forces with the Salt Lake Public Communications Council of the LDS Church to cosponsor "The Good Samaritan Awards Program."

The program is designed to recognize and honor people who exemplify the higher standards of personal commitment to others and to bring before the public the positive side of our society and present it as an example for others.

The Good Samaritan Program is now accepting nominations for anyone that should be recognized for their unselfish gifts to others. Nominations can be mailed to KTVX Channel 4, Salt Lake City, Utah 84104.

Information night slated

TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley Marriage Encounter Community will hold an information night on Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at St. Benedicts Student Center, 630 Falls Avenue, Twin Falls.

Marriage Encounter is a forty-four hour weekend course in communications designed to enhance a Christian marriage. These weekends are held each month in Boise and every three months in Pocatello.

Christians of all denominations who are interested in the Marriage Encounter can attend the information night for a better understanding of what the weekend is all about. Registrations for future weekends will be available at the information night.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, AUGUST 13, 1977

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Upsetting conditions can occur that make you wonder just how you can handle the various situations that face you. But maintain calm and poise and you find later you are very much in tune with persons and conditions about you. You are able to haves a good time and show creative ideas.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Handle a responsibility instead of worrying about it and then you have time for the recreations you desire. You can confide quietly in another during the day.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) The situation at home could prove quite irritating now but later all works out fine. Get rid of the obsolete and replace with the new.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Ideal time to visit with relatives, friends, customers, provided you use extra care in driving. Show courtesy toward all and steer clear of arguments. You'll get ahead faster this way.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) See what can be done to cut down on expenses. Later, you can invest wisely, since you have fine judgment. Add to your savings account. Be careful of strangers.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Your ideas are strange now so do not depend on them. Later practical ones occur that should be worked out. Make early appointments for later entertainment and all will go smoothly.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You find it difficult to gain that aim now, but don't be discouraged since later you are successful with it. Understand what friends desire and try to please them more.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) The latter part of the day is best for handling public matters, according to the planets. A bigwig is not in a good humor now but later will change and all works out beautifully.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Many situations arise early that require you control your temper. Make sure to complete what you start.

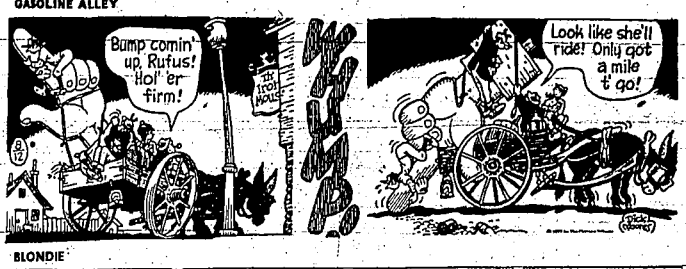

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Handle obligations you have assumed early so that later you have more time for a loved one. A new idea you have can be put to good use. Be diplomatic with others.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Your intuition is askew now so do not follow it. Later it can be most helpful to you. Be tactful with mate, loved one and you avoid a big rumpus later. Show kindness. Think straight.

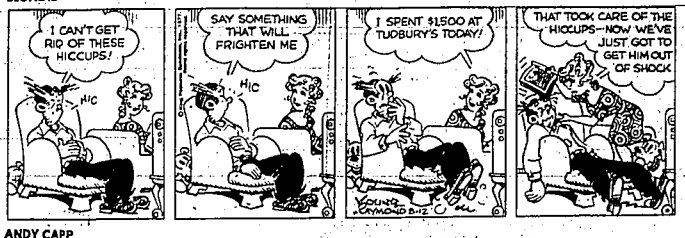

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Now is not the time to confer with a partner. Wait until later. An outside affair could get you angry, but cool down and everything turns out all right.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You want to get out to new places and activities early, but you have work to do that is important. Clear that up first and then you can study into some worthwhile outlet.

That cloth known as denim once was called de Nimes serge, because it originated in Nimes, France. Similarly, jean, the cloth that gave us the name for the trousers now labeled jeans, originated in ancient Janua, now Genoa, Italy. We regard the words "denims" and "jeans" as synonymous, but once they weren't, says our Language man. Incidentally, neither denims nor jeans really caught on, until somebody made them out of those cloths dyed blue.

Again, am asked exactly what determines whether an unmarried woman can be categorized as a spinster. When she reaches that certain age when her statistical chances of not marrying are greater than her chances of marrying—age 31 is now known to be that time—then she can be listed as a spinster.

TURN SIGNALS

Q. "Why don't ships use turn signals like cars do?"

A. It has been done. Twice, at least. A Dutch ship tried it first. Then in 1960, the U. S. Navy put huge arrow signals on the cargo vessel U. S. N. S. Golden Eagle. Each arrow had 28 100-watt bulbs in amber globes. They were mounted on the forward side of the flying bridge, visible to oncoming ships in a 120-degree arc. When the control switch in the wheelhouse was thrown, the appropriate arrow flashed for 30 seconds, or longer, if so set. Maybe it did little good, don't know. Why no ship since likewise has been so rigged is a mystery.

Q. "Has anybody ever been cured of snoring?"

A. That cynical literary light of yesteryear, H. L. Mencken, claimed he was. After surgeons straightened his nasal septum. Such surgery won't cure every case, though.

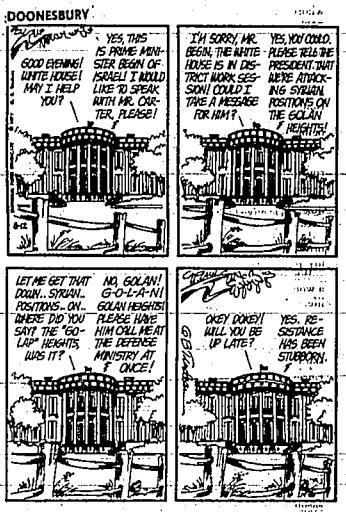

Nobody ever refers anymore to a dishwater blonde. Why I don't know. Maybe because a blonde who can be so described immediately tints her hair to a livelier color. Or because the popularity of automatic dishwashers means half the population no longer recognizes the shade called dishwater. Whatever, the dishwater blonde appears to be an extinct type. The mousey blonde is likewise an endangered species. Fortunately, the honey, ash and platinum blondes are still with us.

The body of the average man produces 17 per cent more heat than does the body of the average woman, remember that.

There are no round meteorites.

1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: We have a Mother's Day and a Father's Day, why not officially declare a day to honor bachelors?

The great historian and philosopher, Will Durant, compiled a list of the ten men he rated as having the sharpest minds of all time. Among them were Plato, Isaac Newton, Voltaire, Immanuel Kant, Leonardo da Vinci and St. Thomas Aquinas, all of whom were bachelors!

Two of the world's greatest musicians were bachelors—Beethoven and Brahms. Oddly enough, the musician who was said to have been the greatest ladies' man of them all was Richard Wagner—a married man!

One finds outstanding bachelors in all trades and professions except politics.

Let's hear it for bachelors!

ED IN RICHMOND

Should bachelors have day?

DEAR ED: Why not? But two bachelors DID make it big in politics: James Buchanan, our 16th president, and Jerry Brown, California's governor.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a non-smoking guy going with a beautiful redhead whose breath smells like smoldering tires. This gal really turns me on, but her breath turns me off.

How do other guys handle this situation? Don't tell me to take up smoking so I won't notice her breath. I was a three-pack-a-day man until my brother developed lung cancer, and that cured me.

Answer soon. I want to marry this girl, but wonder how to handle this one major problem.

TIMID TIM

DEAR TIM: Try the direct approach. If that doesn't work, the ball is in your court again, and only you can decide if you want this beautiful redhead whose breath turns you off.

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from STUMPED whose fiance suddenly developed the fear of driving, so now she complains because she must do all the driving, which will limit her social life. Ha! What a wonderful helpmate she is. My condolences to the man who's stuck with her. I wonder what she would have done in my place, twenty-five years ago, my husband also "lost his nerve" about driving, and rather than see him risk his life every time he went out, I took over the driving for both of us. Since he was a salesman and our living depended on his being "on the road" every day, need I tell you what that situation did to my life?

It not only wrecked my "social life," it changed my home routine. I sat in the car alone every day, Monday through Friday. I read hundreds of books, wrote hundreds of letters, and knitted scores of afghans. BUT today my husband is alive and well and his self-respect is undamaged because he was able to support his family.

I will always have the satisfaction of knowing that my promise, "Whither thou goest, I will go," was kept! THAT, my poor dear STUMPED, is what love is all about.

Why don't you get out of that man's life and let him find a woman who will share his troubles as well as his "social life."

HAPPY CHAUFFEUR

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

your health

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—

Three years ago I had a small nervous breakdown, which resulted in tension and a constipation problem.

My doctors recommended mild tranquilizers and a psychiatrist. I took the pills but not the therapy. A change in jobs helped my tension and prune juice cured the rest.

Today I am a healthy, 25-year-old woman who has cured her nerves but still depends on 15 oz. of prune juice every other day. I'm truly afraid to stop yet I know I should. What can I do? How long will it take to return to normal? Please help!

Dear Reader—

It sounds to me like you have made a lot of progress. There are worse things than prune juice. Your bowel function would probably improve if you could decrease the amount you need.

Prune juice contains an active ingredient that stimulates contractions of the colon. In this sense it is a bit like a chemical laxative. It does not provide bulk. There are different reasons for constipation. In most people it is related to insufficient bulk in the diet. Psychological factors are often important, too.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-1, Irritable or Spastic Colon and Constipation. It will provide a good program for you to use. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. By being patient and following the bowel training program outlined there you can improve.

I would suggest that you start increasing the bulk in your diet by using whole cereals that contain bran. Increase the bulky vegetables as in salads. If you happen to use coffee, tea or colas you might stop them. These increase anxiety and nervousness anyway and have the opposite effects of your tranquilizers.

Try to develop and maintain a sensible exercise program. Exercise is a good tranquilizer for most people.

Dear Dr. Lamb—

I have never heard you comment on someone who uses an excess amount of salt in his diet. What I mean is at every meal he makes his food white with salt.

Dear Reader—

Almost all life giving substances can be harmful in truly excessive amounts. Hence, too much oxygen leads to oxygen poisoning but you will die without it. Too much sunshine will damage the skin or even induce skin cancer. Yet, all the energy that runs planet Earth comes from the sun.

We need salt. Our body fluids must have salt in them for a normal chemical balance. In reasonable amounts if a person consumes more salt than he needs the excess is simply eliminated. Of course, that requires water and the individual must have plenty of water intake to do this properly. Too much salt and not enough fluid can contribute to developing heat stroke in a person exposed to heat.

In very large amounts there is some evidence that this may contribute to high blood pressure. The reason for high blood pressure and strokes in native Japanese is often stated to be from the excess use of salt.

Some people use lots of salt from habit. A few use lots of salt because their body needs it. A good example here is the person with a deficiency of the adrenal glands. These people crave salt and it does help to prevent adverse symptoms.

CAPT. SLIM CUMMINGS SPEAKS TO FRIGHTENED PASSENGERS
. . . 38 graduate from "program for fearful flyers"

38 fearful flyers overcome problem

HOUSTON (UPI) — Tears welling in her eyes, Carol Apffel braced herself in the passenger's seat of the giant jetliner that was groaning, shaking and rumbling down the runway.

On board with her were 37 other passengers in varying states of fear and apprehension. Some women paled and nearly fainted. Some men gripped the armrests, knuckles turning white, and wept openly.

But Capt. Slim Cummings continued speaking soothingly to his frightened passengers.

"Kind of wiggle your fanny a little bit in that seat," he said. "Take a deep breath. Close your eyes. This is going to be a very, very joyous time."

Afterward, most of the passengers agreed there had been little to fear.

"I can't believe I did it," said Mrs. Apffel, 38, when the flight was completed.

Cummings had graduated the latest class in his "program for fearful flyers."

The "graduation flight," an hour of circling Houston at about 300 miles per hour and 12,000 feet, would be quite ordinary for most people. Skies were blue and there was never a ripple of turbulence.

But those with a phobia for flying take three weeks to work up to it under the tutelage of Cummings, 60, a retired career Pan American Airways pilot with experience in psychology.

His $100, three-week, seven-meeting course offers people what he calls "the facts" about aircraft and the people who fly them to counter the fear he estimates prevents 25 million Americans from flying.

"It's a very, very serious problem for them," Cummings said.

"There's guys in the class who've been told (by companies) you've been putting off this flying long enough. We're going to have to find somebody else who'll fly. There's marriages threatened."

Cummings is assisted by clinical psychologists, other airline personnel and films supplied by Pan Am. But he emphasizes "personal victory," using various psychological techniques to get his charges to face and control fear.

He's not 100 per cent successful. One man skipped the graduation flight. A woman who made it deplaned vowing, "That's it. I'll never get on another one."

But Cummings, who in two and a half years has graduated more than 1,000 persons in 15 classes around the country, is philosophical about the failures, taking pleasure in those he can help beat the fear.

He leads applause, hugs the women, pumps the hands of the men and presents "diplomas" and copies of the John Gillespie Magee Jr.'s poem "High Flight," which begins, "Oh! I have slipped the surly bonds of Earth..."

Tracing 'roots' often upsetting

By ARTHUR J. SNIDER
© Chicago Daily News

The new rage for tracing your roots is becoming more embarrassing than rewarding for many people.

Genealogist Frank T. Kocher says shakers of the family tree who are seeking status, an inheritance or perhaps descent from some European royalty are as likely to uncover skeletons in the family closet.

"The records may well show a desertion by a soldier in the Revolutionary War, some illegitimacies, or a relative who has spent more time in jail than out of it," says Kocher, a professor at Pennsylvania State University.

"If the search is going to cause descendants real problems, then it is better to remain ignorant and happy."

The more relatives you have, the more likely you are to uncover bad apples.

Kocher also cautions ancestor-tracing can become a time consuming hobby, using all your free hours. It also can be expensive in traveling to places that might have information, buying books and hiring people to look up information for you.

There is also the risk of being taken by fraud or fakery. There are many people in Europe who will provide you with a fancy but phoney coat-of-arms.

The proper motivation for looking into the past is that of Alex Haley, whose "Roots" started it all. He only wanted to know the characteristics of the people from whom he came and how the information could help his personal growth.

You may want to know how you came about, what accounts for the peculiar names in your family or how people of varied backgrounds got together.

The best way to start is talking to relatives, finding out the places and times previous generations lived.

You can consult public records. Courthouse records will show you the wills or how estates of deceases were administered. You can check back through tax records to find when a given person was in a locality.

Family Bibles are reliable sources. Genealogical publications, available in many public libraries, are helpful.

Campus 'coon coat comeback predicted

CHICAGO (UPI) — Margery Ware, who was too embarrassed to wear her full-length raccoon coat at college in the anti-Establishment 1960s, is now one of the youngest fur buyers in the country.

Miss Ware, 26, manager of the fur boutique at the Bonwit Teller store in Chicago, said many more college students are buying and wearing furs than in the last decade.

"I didn't wear furs in college — had one and never wore it — was embarrassed," Miss Ware said.

She predicted the raccoon coat will make a gala comeback on campus this fall — a fashion phenomenon not seen in stadiums since Herbert Hoover was President. A full-length raccoon coat retails for about $1,200.

"I had like all the sorority girls from Northwestern (University)" last year, she said. "One comes, they all come. A lot (of customers) from Indiana.

"I think the eastern schools and the Big Ten schools — they're all starting to wear furs there."

She said more furs are being sold than ever before because "people are starting to go more for quality instead of quantity. They are willing to put more money into what they're going to buy if it is going to last longer.

"Fur keeps you warm and fur lasts if you take care of it."

Raccoon was a big seller last year, she said, because it is a "real durable fur that you can wear in the rain or snow or anything and really nothing will happen to it."

The cheapest furs are the rabbit (French rabbit does not shed) and opossum. The most expensive fur is the sable, which can retail for about $100,000.

Miss Ware has been in the fur business 4½ years and a buyer for four years.

"I graduated from the University of Denver, went to retailers school in New York for a year and then to Bloomingdale's training program. I came back and went to work for Bonwit's first and then into the fur business.

"At first I managed the department for about half a year and then I started doing the buying. This is my father's business. I had no intention of ever going into the fur business. I really didn't even like furs. I thought they were nice ... but I'm a sheets and towels freak."

Miss Ware said she would advise a potential customer "she's better off putting a couple of hundred extra dollars into a fur that she can wear five, six or 10 years ... rather than buying a cloth coat that you'd have to replace every year or every two years."

She said a working woman probably would want "raccoon or coyote so you can dress up or dress down — something you can wear with your blue jeans or a skirt."

> "I think the eastern schools and the Big Ten schools — they're all starting to wear furs there."

While coyote coats retail at $1,600, sheared rabbit coats go for about $800.

"Normally I get working women and young mothers, from ages 20 to 45," as customers, she said, but "we're selling a lot more jackets to men."

One man ordered two mink coats custom-made for his two baby girls, which cost $1,000 a piece, she said.

Fur fanatics should go to Europe though, she said.

"Everything there is reversible. It's rain gear on one side and fur on the other side, and they have detachable hoods, detachable vests — things you can really wear all year round."

A person considering a fur should get a coat made from the paws of the animals.

"The best part of the pieces are the paws," she said. "Flanks aren't as good because they'll have thinner spots. But when you have the paw, they're all heavy and they're all durable."

Well wishers

BANDLEADER Stan Kenton should have no doubts about having a large Detroit-area following when he receives this giant get-well card with an estimated 1,000 signatures. The card was signed by persons attending the P-Jazz concerts held in downtown Detroit. Kenton, 65, is recuperating from surgery after suffering a skull fracture when he fell last May. Adding her signature to the giant card is Laura Hanlin. (UPI)

Buhl couple wed with church rites

MR. AND MRS. ROCKY FINNEY

BUHL—Lynda Kaye Lent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Lent, Buhl, and Rocky Dean Finney were united in marriage in rites Aug. 2 at the Assembly of God Church, Buhl.

Finney is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Finney, Buhl.

Rev. Hilliard performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a traditional floor-length wedding gown of lace fashioned with a long train with a fingertip veil. She carried yellow roses and blue carnations and wore her great grandmother's necklace.

Tammie Finney, Buhl, sister of the bride, was maid of honor.

The bride's attendant was Janet Fairchild, Buhl.

Best man was Rodney Hopwood, and ushers were Reggie Finney, brother of the bridegroom, and Curtis Lent, brother of the bride.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at Lincoln Courts.

Carol Clark was in charge of the guest book and gift bearer was Tim Lent, brother of the bride.

The three-tiered wedding cake was decorated in yellow and blue to match the yellow and blue tablecloths.

Reception assistants included Oleta Roberts, Marilyn Shafer, Janice Porter, Brooksie Cullimore and Valerie Huff, Betty Jo Whaley, Lena Hoxby, Jill Hoxby and Jean and Linda Wright also assisted at the reception.

Out-of-town guests were from Burley, Hansen, Oakley, Kimberly, Boise, Jerome, Wendell and Filer.

The couple is employed at Idaho Trout Processors.

After a wedding trip to Yellowstone National Park, the couple will live in Buhl.

Easter Seal center schedules evaluations

TWIN FALLS—The Magic Valley Easter Seal Center is scheduling evaluations for children with speech, hearing and motor coordination problems for Sept. 1.

Often children who do not talk at two years have articulation problems, according to Merle Stoddard, director of the center.

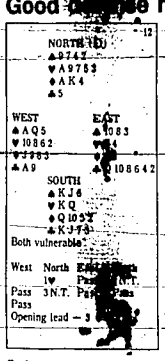

A class will be held for two- and three-year-old children in the mornings and four- and five-year-olds in the afternoon for children with speech problems or those who appear immature or uncoordinated.

This year the Easter Seal Center will have a certified school teacher available to help children with reading and academic problems.

If your child has a speech, hearing or motor coordination problem, call the Easter Seal Center at 733-5745.

Stocks at Midday

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened lower Friday in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which fell 9.61 points Thursday to a 19-month low, was off 1.73 points to 875.70 shortly after the opening.

Declines led advances, 135 to 68, among the 345 issues crossing the tape in the early going.

Turnover amounted to about 440,000 shares.

Investors were disturbed by the Federal Reserve Board's report that the nation's basic money supply rose $700 million in the latest reporting week. On a broader basis, the money supply climbed $1 billion.

Prior to that report, the Fed, which has made money tougher to obtain for the past month, indicated further a credit tightening by raising the target for federal fund rates banks charge one another for overnight loans. This all means higher interest rates are in the offing.

The selling sparked by this news wiped out advances sparked by a 0.1 per cent dip in July's Wholesale Price Index. That followed June's 0.7 per cent drop. However, industrial commodities prices rose 0.5 per cent, following a 0.3 per cent rise in June.

Market plummets to 19-month low

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks fell to their lowest level in 19 months Thursday in fairly active trading after the Federal Reserve Board indicated it had tightened credit to counter a surge in the nation's money supply.

The Dow Jones industrial average, up about three points at the outset, fell 9.61 points to 877.43, the lowest level since it finished at 858.71 on Jan. 2, 1976. The loss wiped out Wednesday's 7.62-point advance.

The Federal Reserve Board, which has made money tougher to get for the past month, set the stage for higher interest rates by raising the target for federal fund rates banks charge one another for overnight loans.

The NYSE common stock index fell 0.32 to 53.77 and the average price of a share shed 18 cents.

Declines topped advances 747 to 622 among the 1,852 issues crossing the composite tape at 4 p.m. EDT. Big Board volume totaled 21,740,000 shares, up from the 18,280,000 traded Wednesday.

Composite volume of NYSE issues listed on all U.S. exchanges and over the counter at 4 p.m. EDT totaled 24,059,088 shares, compared with 20,759,200 Wednesday.

Russians make first grain buy, face rain-caused field problems

London Telegraph

MOSCOW — Russia has made its first big purchases of American grain this year amid reports in the Moscow press that the Soviet grain harvest is facing serious problems from torrential rain.

Private American exporters are reported to have sold half a million tons of corn and a quarter of a million of wheat under a U.S.-Soviet agreement which binds Russia to purchase a million tons of grain each year for five years.

So far this year the Russians have also bought 1.7 million tons of grain from Canada to supply the needs of Cuba and 450,000 tons from Australia mainly for Vietnam and North Korea.

As Russia approaches the half way mark in this year's grain harvest hte government newspaper Izvestia reports large aereas of grain have been flattened by rain in the Ukraine, which accounts for over one fifth of the Soviet crop, and there have been torrential rains in Byelorussia.

Other areas reported affected by the weather are the Baltic republics, the northern Caucasus and parts of the Black Sea regions.

Nevertheless, by the beginning of this month the Soviets had harvested about 110 million acres or over a third of the total area under grain.

Western experts say rain could affect grain quality and inflate production figures but stress it is still too early to predict how good the 1977 crop will be. The U.S.-Soviet grain purchase agreement is for the five year period from 1975 to 1980.

Take care with fire

BOISE (UPI) — Fire danger is high in the Boise National Forest but camping conditions are good, according to the weekly recreation report.

Campers are reminded to use designated fire pits and never leave their fires unattended.

Although permits are not required in the Boise National Forest to cut firewood for home use surrounding forests do require permits.

Fair space planned for flower growers

FILER — For a number of years, Twin Falls County Fair board officials have been encouraging young flower gardeners to grow and display their flowers at the Twin Falls County Fair.

Space for their exhibits will be reserved in the large agricultural building at the fair Sept. 6-10 and exhibits will be judged at 4 p.m., Sept. 7 using the same rules as open class judging in the flower department.

Exhibits must be grown by the person in whose name they are entered and all entries must remain in place till close of fair. Entry sheets may be obtained from the fair office or will be mailed on request, according to Tom Shouse, secretary-manager.

Ribbons and cash premiums in three places will be awarded approximately 40 classes of annuals, perennials, arrangements, house plants and terrariums.

Awards also are available for junior gardeners in the vegetable section. Judging in this section will be at 4 p.m., Sept. 6.

There are 29 classes of vegetables with premiums in three places, as well as 8 classes of largest specimens with first place premiums.

Each year L.T. "Pete" Creed awards a trophy to the best individual vegetable display by a junior gardener.

Record sunflower?

THREE SEEDS and four months were used by Duane Hauser, 17, of Pekin, Ill., to produce an 18" diameter sunflower. Weighing 20 lbs. and having a 5' circumference, the sunflower may be a record, Hauser believes.

Get fruit exhibits into fair on time

FILER — Fruitgrowers planning to exhibit fruits at the Twin Falls County Fair Sept. 6-10, should make their exhibits early as fair officials stress it is very important all exhibits be in place at the fair's opening.

Cecil Childs, Buhl, is superintendent of the fruit department. All exhibits must remain in place until counted by the judges, but exhibitors may replace damaged fruits at any time except during judging. Fruits may be polished and arrangements in displays count. Each variety must be correctly labeled.

The standard score card, used by the judges in making awards, state 10 points will be given for form; 15 for size most acceptable for commercial use; 20, color; 25, uniformity; and 30, condition, which means the fruit should be free from wormholes, scab, bruises, and skin breaks.

Premiums will be given on eight varieties of apples, four of peaches, four of pears, six of plums, four of prunes, nine of grapes, and three of nuts.

A plate of apples, peaches and pears shall be five specimens; grapes, four clusters; plums, prunes and like seed fruit, 10 specimens, and nuts, 10 specimens.

Drought damage totaled

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — California's No. 1 industry, agriculture, will "most likely" lose a total of $800 million because of this year's drought — well below earlier projections.

The Department of Food and Agriculture issued a report Tuesday saying the latest information shows farm and ranch losses will "range anywhere from $500 million to $1.5 billion, with $800 million the most likely level."

Of the $800 million loss figure, it said, $500 million represents livestock industry losses.

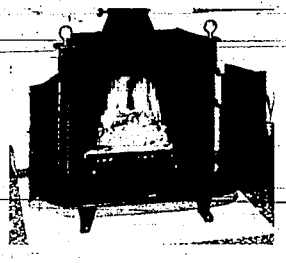

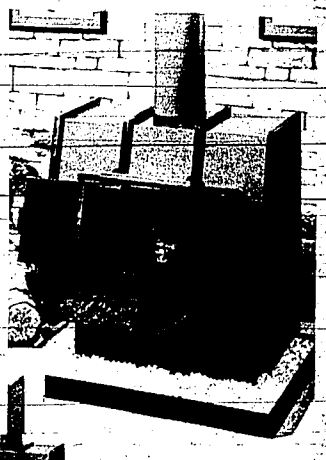

Earlier, farm officials had estimated the decline in gross farm income would range from $1.2 to $1.4 billion, based on projections that reduced amounts of irrigation water would slow production.

But it said, "The present outlook for California agriculture actually suggests that 1977 production will be near or even above the 1976 level."

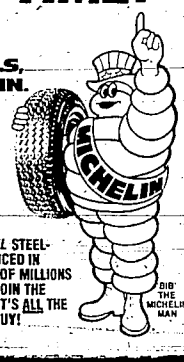

The report said the improved outlook was the result of farmers drilling for more water than expected and using water-efficient irrigation methods.

Blue Lakes ranks high on critical street list

TRAFFIC PILES UP ON BLUE LAKES BOULEVARD DURING RUSH HOUR
... the intersection at Blue Lakes and Filer Avenue is one of the most dangerous in Idaho

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — On the critical list of 144 Idaho streets and roads begging for improvement, Blue Lakes Boulevard in Twin Falls ranks number three, and will soon be second in priority.

A "Critical Action Indicator" list has just been completed by the Department of Transportation, Division of Highways. Blue Lakes Boulevard North — the intersection with Filer Avenue in particular — has one of the highest accident rates and some of the heaviest traffic in Idaho.

James Pline, traffic supervisor for the Department of Transportation, Boise, said he cannot term Blue Lakes Boulevard one of the "most hazardous" routes in the state, but the computerized study does show it is carrying traffic well in excess of its designed capacity.

"Right now we are pushing hard for improvement at the intersection of Blue Lakes and Filer Avenue, but first we have to obtain right-of-way and complete a design for the intersection," he said.

Pline said the new study included a review of the entire system of urban, rural and state routes in the state to establish an average based on accident rates and traffic volumes. Each area was then compared to this average and a list prepared of those exceeding the average route by the greatest number of points.

The number one problem area proved to be Yellowstone Highway and Alameda Street in Pocatello, followed by a section of the one-way couplet route through Boise, and then Blue Lakes Boulevard North, Twin Falls. Pline said work is nearly completed as of this week on an extensive improvement of the Pocatello problem area which will automatically move Blue Lakes Boulevard into number two spot.

The study revealed there are 144 sections of streets and roads or intersections ranking above average and, therefore, in need of attention to reduce accidents.

Pline said plans for the Blue Lakes and Filer Avenue intersection call for establishing six lanes on Blue Lakes and five on Filer Avenue at the intersection to provide special turning lanes with a turn phase in the traffic signals. He said there is no definite target date for construction because of undetermined factors such as right-of-way acquisition.

Pline said at this time only the right-of-way on the southeast corner of the intersection has been acquired. Two businesses and one residential property is involved in the remaining right-of-way. How long it will take the state to obtain this could be anywhere up to five years, he estimated.

Pline said the department is looking at the eventual improvement of all of Blue Lakes Boulevard, part of U.S. Highway 93, from the North Five Points to just north of Pole Line Road. This will also take considerable time because of the large amount of right-of-way needed for widening.

Improvement at the North Five Points, previously a critical accident area, was completed less than a year ago.

"Since this project has not yet been in use a year, we will wait until after the first year to make a full evaluation there and determine how much improvement we actually gained at the intersection and the overall boulevard traffic pattern," Pline said.

After the improved five-points intersection opened, he said, emphasis shifted to the Filer Avenue intersection where left turns and heavy shopping center traffic continue to create problems and accidents.

Pline said the state is hoping to widen all of the boulevard north of the five points, to allow for full size traffic lanes and median construction between the north and southbound traffic. There are no other through routes in the north part of Twin Falls, and none that directly connect with the Perrine Memorial Bridge providing the only Snake River Crossing. Pline said this situation spells only heavier and heavier use of Blue Lakes.

The route as a whole is carrying traffic well in excess of capacity, he said.

"We find we can move a lot of cars in a lane of traffic so long as there are no stops. Once you put in a traffic light, you reduce the capacity of the traffic lane by 50 per cent. There are lots of left turns and lots of in-and-out traffic from the many shopping and commercial enterprises along the boulevard which further reduce the capacity of the highway," Pline said.

Results of the study will be sent to district highway offices in the near future for local review and input. Projects for correction of problem areas will then be designed and programmed.

Jarbidge fete slated

JARBIDGE, Nev.—Residents of the old mining community of Jarbidge, just below the Idaho-Nevada state line are continuing efforts to raise funds for restoration of the historic old Community Hall in the town.

Officers of Jarbidge Community Hall Fund Inc., were elected in the annual meeting. Roberta Skelton is president; Arleen Joyal, vice president; Ethlyn Barneby, secretary and historian; Valerie Berry, treasurer; Viola Carpenter, Valerie McHugh and Gloria Williams, trustees of three- two- and one-year terms respectively.

Jeanne R. Mathias, public relations, said plans are under way for a fund-raising dance Sept. 3.

The event will be held in the community hall with live western and modern music provided by area bands. Activities are open to the public; in fact, Mathias says, everyone is urged to attend and assist the cause.

Dancing begins at 9 p.m. and admission is $1.50 adults and $1 juniors. All proceeds will go into the restoration fund for the famous old Nevada landmark.

Cement mixer 'hot'

TWIN FALLS — City police in Twin Falls are looking for a "hot" cement mixer.

Officials of B and J Carpentry, Twin Falls, reported someone stole a cement mixer valued at $2,000 from a construction site. The machine had been parked at 1737 Osterloh where B and J Carpentry was engaged in a building project.

When employes checked the site about 10 a.m. Thursday, they discovered the large mixer was missing.

Police probe stabbing

TWIN FALLS — A 59-year-old Twin Falls man was listed in satisfactory condition at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital this morning with knife wounds following a stabbing incident at about 4 a.m.

Detective Capt. Tim Qualls, Twin Falls police department, said Wallace Conner, 59, Twin Falls, was stabbed numerous times about the face and in the chest and back, following an altercation in a motel room in the 800 block of Second Avenue West early today.

Claudie B. Johns, 71, also Twin Falls, was arrested by city police at the motel, and charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit murder. Qualls would say only that Conner was stabbed with a knife. He said investigation is continuing.

Gibb tours centers

TWIN FALLS — University of Idaho president Dr. Richard Gibb made a quick stop in Twin Falls Tuesday on a tour of the university's agricultural research centers.

As he completed a stop at the Kimberly Research Center on his way to Aberdeen, Gibb found time to comment on his new job, which he said he accepted "to get back to a campus where I could relate directly."

"The first thing to do is get as well acquainted as I can," Gibb said. "Then I can start bringing things into perspective on priorities.

"But I don't unilaterally set priorities," he added quickly. "No president does."

Gibb said the purpose of the Tuesday tour was to learn as much as he could about the school's extension centers.

"I don't want to be in the position of saying 'I don't know I've never been there,' so I'm making the tour," Gibb said.

He said he had been spending the bulk of his time since beginning as president July 1 on the U of I campus, meeting with department heads and deans. Gibb said he had also met five times with the state board.

"I didn't know how interested I was in the job until I met the board," Gibb said. "I very much like that board."

'Y' sinks $4,400 in the red

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS—Facing the end of the solicitation period with the prospect of mounting debts, Magic Valley YMCA director has sent an urgent letter to board members asking them to shoulder the wheel on the Y's contributions campaign.

In the letter, Chuck Upton guessed the agency would end August with an operating deficit of about $4,400.

That deficit, Upton told board members, was up from a deficit of about $50 at the end of June and about $2,400 at the end of July.

Upton said the deficit would probably fall off in September and October, "because of the large influx in membership payments, class and program fees being paid."

But Upton saw the deficit increasing once the income spurt was over.

"November and December are slow income months," he wrote; "the expenses will again outstrip the income and the operating deficit will grow."

Upton told board members the Y would need about $7,600 more in contributions by year's end to finish with a balanced budget.

"I guess the bottom line is: 'So what if the YMCA is in debt: It has been in debt before and it always seems to manage' to continue its operation, programs and activities. True, but this continual struggle for survival cannot continue forever. The YMCA sooner or later," Upton wrote, "must find the financial 'key' and become strong enough that it can balance its budget and operate without any indebtedness.

"I am convinced," he concluded, "that Magic Valley people, businesses, and firms are sufficiently endowed with dollars that if the proper case was presented on behalf of the 'Y' that $7,600 could be raised.

"I sincerely hope," he encouraged board members, "that in the next few weeks that you will have the time, energy, and courage to challenge your friends, neighbors and business associates to help the YMCA meet its financial needs for 1977."

The letter was mailed to board members Tuesday. Wednesday Upton said the Y had budgeted about $13,800 in contributions and had collected slightly under $10,000.

Upton said additional contributions of about $4,000 should leave the Y with a balanced budget at year's end. He admitted his call for $7,600 would result in some excess.

"The $7,600 would put us over the budgeted figure, and we'd be able to do some things that we haven't been able to do before," he said.

Upton said the Y monthly major expenses amount to about $2,800, counting salaries but no incidentals.

The expenses include a payment of $583 monthly on a $140,000, 10-per-cent interest loan from Sierra Life Insurance Co. for the YMCA swimming pool, a payment of $1,350 monthly for pool and building maintenance and use fees, and about $1,000 monthly in salaries.

Upton said the building costs were "where the pinch is coming. At the moment we're current, but August is going to be a very, very tough month to get it."

With the three major items to be paid regardless of income, the Y is foundering.

"That's why we get into a real bind and need these contributions to carry us through," Upton said.

He added the Y hasn't so far defaulted this year, but he said that moment may be getting close.

"That's why I'm getting desperate, and that's why I wrote the letter," he said. "I can see the handwriting on the wall. There isn't any doubt about it."

The Y is facing a deadline, too, Upton said, because by agreement with United Way, one of its major supporters, the Y solicits no contributions from Sept. 1 through Dec. 15, the dates of the UW campaign.

"What I'm really hoping that we can do is for once meet this thing and get over the hump so we know what we're shooting for," Upton said. "Once you get behind you're always paying off dead horses."

Upton said the Y budget this year is about $58,600. Of that United Way support will be about $11,000, he said. Memberships have accounted for about $8,200 so far this year, he added, and contributions another $10,000, for an income of about $29,000 through June.

In order to increase its membership income, the Y plans to emphasize adult and family programs to bring in those fees, which are higher than youth program fees, Upton said.

Searchers recover body of Jerome teen

JEROME — Searchers Thursday afternoon recovered the body of Tonya Pedersen, 15, Jerome, who drowned Monday in a tubing accident in the swift waters of the main Northside Canal.

Sheriff Elza Hall, Jerome County, said the body was recovered about six miles downstream from where the girl drowned. He said her father, Steve Pedersen, and a friend were assisting in the search when the father spotted the body floating in shallow water at the edge of the canal near a gate which was taking water from the main stream.

Hall said the swift water had apparently swept the body past divers and search crews.

Miss Pedersen was tubing in the canal with three other young people Monday afternoon northwest of here when she slipped from the tube and became tangled in debris. A young companion, Kent Lee, attempted to rescue her but had difficulty saving himself and lost sight of the girl, officers said. Hall said the young woman appeared to have been swept into some rocks after she fell into the water. She had suffered head bruises, he said.

Sheriff Hall said the canal is unsafe for tubing, but it is difficult to keep young people out. Hopefully, the drowning will serve as a warning to parents and youngsters alike, he said.

During the search, divers had difficulty because of the swiftness of the water, rocks and barbed wire in the stream. Two deputies were thrown into the water Thursday and had to fight for their lives when their fiberglass boat capsized and was broken, Hall said.

He said many youngsters float down the stream and under a bridge with heavy post pillars extending into the water. Hitting one of these at a high speed would be disastrous, he said.

About 40 officers and volunteers including the Jerome County search and rescue unit and divers from Jerome, Burley and Rupert assisted in the search.

Pancakes aplenty

Idaho City water found contaminated

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho City could be in for a long seige of contaminated water, the Idaho Division of Environment told the mayor Thursday.

Residents of Idaho City have been urged to boil their drinking water and the warning is being enforced in commercial outlets, Dick Rogers, environmental engineer with the division, said.

The source of contamination either "is coming from water directly out of Elk Creek or it is entering the system through a leak in a line or a cross connection," Rogers said.

The division is sending more personnel to the system Friday to continue the investigation, Rogers said the system is about 43 years old and was built with used pipes.

"Any water to be consumed whether it is for ice or coffee or mixed drinks has to be boiled," Rogers said.

The Central District Health Department has told restaurant owners to boil water that is used in food service or preparation and the sheriff's department is enforcing the recommendation, Rogers said.

Superman can't sell Utah booze

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Santa Claus, Superman, Mickey Mouse, and the Easter Bunny won't be able to sell booze in Utah under new advertising regulations being considered by the State Liquor Control Commission.

The regulations, defining the types of acceptable liquor advertising, were proposed to the commission Thursday in an attempt to settle out of court a lawsuit brought by the Utah Press Association challenging a ban on all booze ads.

Commissioners took the guidelines under advisement.

They would prohibit liquor ads depicting childhood heros such as "Santa Claus, the Easter Bunny, Mickey Mouse, Superman and other 'cartoon celebrities.'"

The rules would also forbid ads depicting family scenes, indecently attired persons or the act of drinking. They could not contain testimonials of athletes or other famous persons.

No religious holidays could be mentioned, although whiskey and wine could be sold in connection with the "holiday season." Ads could make no false claims about the origin of the liquor, its age, or effects on the body.

"The regulations would permit only product identification advertising," said Acting Liquor Director Dennis Kellen.

"They are an attempt to settle this suit out of court with a compromise," he added.

One year ago, under pressure from the PTA, the commission issued an outright ban on liquor advertising originating in the state. Commissioners said a strict reading of state law required the censorship — which did not affect advertising in national publications or on network radio and television.

The press association, representing most of the state's newspapers, went to court challenging the action. They claimed the commission had arbitrarily decided to reinterpret a law under which liquor ads had been allowed for more than 40 years.

Many small newspapers claimed they received significant amounts of their total advertising revenue from liquor companies, particularly during the holiday season.

Association lawyers won an injunction in Third District Court permitting advertising as long as it was reviewed by the commission. Several ads showing drinking scenes and sexy women were subsequently rejected.

In an effort to settle the lawsuit out of court, the newspapers proposed a set of advertising guidelines they promised to follow. Kellen and his staff formalized the guidelines, adding specific definitions.

Commissioners will look them over and decide at their Aug. 25 meeting whether to approve them. If the guidelines are accepted, they will then be sent back to the press association, which must also agree.

The five-member commission first tried to institute the advertising ban last August. Since then, three members of the board have been replaced, including controversial chairman Ottis Plant, who spearheaded the drive against liquor ads.

Report shows Kootenai County as part of 'Godfather' territory

COEUR d'ALENE, Idaho (UPI) — Amid skepticism about his motives and the credibility of his investigation, Sheriff Rocky Watson released a report Thursday he says links one massage parlor to the underworld and other rackets in northern Idaho and elsewhere.

The study is entitled "Has The Godfather Moved to Kootenai County?" and boils down to a report purchased by Watson for $400 from freelance reporter Ivan Nachman, who gave no permanent address.

The report could backfire on Watson, since he announced its existence and took credit for it in advance, but stepped aside and let Nachman take the heat for the report's "iffy" stances connecting the friend of a friend to a Seattle nightlife figure.

The night life figure was convicted five years ago of importing bingo equipment into the state. Such equipment was illegal then. He served a prison term for the offense.

Watson said Monday in an advance statement that he would "name names" and identify the link between the parlors and the underworld.

He added that the massage parlors, the Ranch and Andrea's, could be fronts for other illegal activities such as extortion and gambling.

The net of Nachman's report is this: Kenneth Merrill Sr., Stateline, Idaho, owner of Andrea's massage parlor, knows James McQuade who knows a Seattle nightlife figure.

No evidence was presented in the report to prove this and Watson admitted he had not received any complaints about either activity. He added that no additional charges were being prepared against the massage parlors.

Watson has had a running battle inside and outside his office since taking office in January.

Four deputies were fired and two of them were later indicted by a grand jury for alleged statutory rape.

In the same grand jury investigation, Watson was cited for using heavy handed tactics in the statutory rape investigation.

The grand jury called for his removal.

Three steelhead season okayed for Idaho

BOISE (UPI) — Betting on a modest increase in fish runs, the Fish and Game Commission Thursday authorized three fall steelhead seasons — including the first catch and keep season on the Clearwater River in three years.

At the same time, the commission put its stamp of approval on an $11,056,900 "status quo" budget for fiscal 1979 plus a $963,600 shopping list predicated on a proposed increase in hunting and fishing fees.

It also refused to change its basic gun caliber restrictions for big game hunting, although it studied the ballistic effects of a proposal to set a .50-caliber minimum on muzzle loaders.

And it approved four cooperative agreements for studies funded by other agencies and organizations, including a stream classification project directly relating to stream resource maintenance flow studies.

Dave Ortmann told the commission department studies indicate a final run of 37,000 steelhead over Ice Harbor Dam this fall, an amount considerably below the numbers of a few years ago but above recent years. He said he expects the run to be comparable to 1973.

In accordance with this, the commission authorized a catch and keep steelhead season on the Clearwater River from Oct. 17-Dec. 31 and catch and keep steelhead seasons on the Snake and Salmon rivers from Oct. 1-Dec. 31.

Commissioners also approved catch and release steelhead fishing on the Clearwater from Sept. 15-Oct. 16, limiting tackle to barbless hooks.

Originally, the department proposed catch and keep seasons on all three rivers from Oct. 1-Dec. 31 but Commissioner Kenneth Stonebraker said he felt that would be too severe on the wild steelhead fishery.

The commission also reduced proposed bag and possession limits to one daily, two possession and three for the season on all three river systems. Ortmann had proposed larger limits on the "hatchery" fishery but the commission cut back on the suggestion to protect the wild fish and to ease enforcement problems.

For the past three years, autumn steelhead anglers were permitted only to catch and release fish on the Clearwater. Last year, consumptive fishing was allowed on portions of the Snake and Salmon rivers with limits of one daily, one in possession and three for the season.

Fish and Game Director Joe Greenley recommended the possession limit be boosted to two from one to accommodate fishermen who travel long distances to fish.

Catch and keep fishing will be permitted this fall on the Clearwater River from the posted boundary about 500 yards above Lower Granite Reservoir upstream to the Clearwater River bridge at Orofino. The starting point considered earlier in the day was the water intake at Potlatch Forests but fish and game personnel later discovered that was in the center of the "hot spot."

On the North Fork of the Clearwater, consumptive fishing will be allowed in season from the Ahsahka Highway bridge upstream to 300 feet below Dworshak Dam.

Steelhead fishing will be authorized on the Snake River arm of Lower Granite Reservoir and the Snake River upstream to 400 feet below Hells Canyon Dam. On the Salmon, it will be permitted from its mouth to the mouth of Redfish Lake Creek.

In authorizing catch and release steelhead fishing on the Clearwater River drainage the commission set forth some exceptions, especially on the Selway River.

Greenley told the commission the "status quo" budget can be financed through present state revenue sources plus federal funds. Although it is some $1.5 million above the current budget, he said, federal monies will take up the slack.

Earlier this summer, the department put forth proposals to raise as much as $1.3 million additional revenue through fee increases. Thursday, it put before the commission a list of priorities on how it would spend $716,000 of that money plus $247,500 in federal matching funds.

Included in the expanded budget proposal for fiscal 1979 are 16 new positions, a point Chairman Will Godfrey, Boise, said he felt may be difficult to sell to the next legislature.

Among proposed fee increases are a boost in the combination hunting-fishing licenses to $15 from $10, in the fishing license to $10 from $6, the hunting license to $8 from $5, the deer tag to $6 from $4 and the elk tag to $12 from $8.

The last raise in fish and game fees was authorized by the 1974 legislature and took effect Jan. 1, 1975.

TOM WATSON of Steamboat Springs, Colo., grimaces as he misses a birdie putt on the 15th hole in the first round of the PGA Tournament. Watson wound up at 68, one stroke off the early pace. (UPI)

Watson uses 25-year-old borrowed clubs to stay within stroke of PGA meet lead

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Tom Watson stands at the center of a controversy — not of his own making — this week, and before it's over he may have convinced a lot of people it's his swing, not illegal clubs, that are making him golf's player-of-the-year.

Forced to borrow a set of 25-year-old clubs only minutes before the start of the PGA Championship Thursday, Watson still was able to shoot a 4-under-par 68 that left him just a shot off Gene Littler's first round lead.

Watson, winner of the Masters and British Open, wound up without clubs of his own when a second set, flown here from his home in Kansas City, was found to be illegal. Just like the set he had been using for the last 13 months, the irons were found to have grooves wider than those allowed by the rules.

This all happened just an hour before he teed off Thursday. It sent Watson to the practice tee yelling:

"Anybody have an extra set of clubs?"

Roger Maltbie found one, a set of MacGregor Tommy Armour "Silver Scots," in the trunk of his auto. Watson had enough time to hit only eight practice shots with them, threw the irons into his bag, grabbed a sand wedge offered by Leonard Thompson, and headed to the first tee. He used his own woods and putter since they were legal.

Watson's performance, in the midst of the debate over grooves on the irons used by many of the pros, was a little on the remarkable side, since Watson himself admitted "I'm not as prepared for this tournament as I'd like to be."

"Watson can win with a broomstick," said Chi Chi Rodriguez. "I just hope he doesn't let this get to him."

He didn't.

"This is something I have no control over," Watson said. "I don't get unnerved about things I have no control over."

The only bogey Watson made on a mild, overcast, breezy day was the result of a bad shot he hit with one of his own woods. It went into the Pacific Ocean off the 10th tee.

Littler, who has been playing Pebble Beach in competition for three decades, was one of those whose clubs passed inspection, and he also managed to survive without a bogey in his first competitive round since June. Littler had been sidelined by a problem with his back, but said "it's been fine for about a week now." Two of the five birdies in his round of 67 came on the last three holes.

Watson shared second place with Jerry McGee, winner last month at Philadelphia, and Mark Hayes, winner of the Tournament Players Championship.

Jack Nicklaus headed a group of 69 shooters that also included Lanny Wadkins and George Cadle while Johnny Miller was at 70 with George Archer, Fuzzy Zoeller, Charles Coody and John Lister.

The rule limiting the width of the grooves on the irons to 35-1000ths of an inch has been on the books since around 1940, but because golf is a game played on the honor system, everyone assumes the clubs that come from the manufacturers are legal. The clubs only rarely are checked for conformity but there has been a rush by players to have their equipment checked this week ever since George Burns found his irons were illegal last week at Hartford.

At first, only new irons manufactured by Ram were found improper, but officials said Thursday some clubs made by Wilson, MacGregor, Spalding and Hogan companies also did not meet the specifications.

The grooves are what put spin on a ball to make it hold the line and hold the green. They are of little import in dry conditions and to players of this calibre would make very little difference under any circumstances. Many older clubs, once legal, become worn and thereby, illegal, through use.

Besides Watson, players who have been forced to scrounge for different clubs include Ray Floyd, Gary Player, Burns, Lister, Kermit Zarley, Tom Weiskopf and Thompson.

No one accused any of the players of doing anything illegal, but a newspaper reporter suggested that perhaps Watson's six victories and $274,178 in official earnings this year should carry an asterisk.

"I expected that," Watson said.

The 27-year-old Watson did not know what to expect from his "new" clubs, however, but he found out in a hurry. "I hit a very good six iron on the first hole, and whatever lack of confidence I had was dispelled."

It wound up 12 feet from the hole and he made the putt for birdie. He birdied the fifth hole from 6 feet, the 11th from 15 feet, two-putted for birdie at the 565-yard 14th after getting home with a 3-wood ("my best shot of the day," Watson said) and made a 12-footer for birdie at the famed, 548-yard 18th.

Watson, who plans to use the same clubs the rest of the weekend, said he found the grips a little smaller than he'd like and the shafts a little weaker than he's used to but the important thing, he said, is "I'm absolutely sure that these are legal."

"Roger's gonna have a fight on his hands if he wants them back," Watson said. Maltbie, using his regular clubs, produced a 70.

Littler earned his lead by sinking an 8-footer for birdie at the 16th hole and a 5-footer at 18, where, he said, "I thought I could have reached in two but I had a good round going and I didn't want to hit it in the ocean."

Nicklaus built his round by making birdies at the 9th, 10th and 11th holes.

A group at 71 included Lee Trevino, Burns, Bill Kratzert, winner last week at Hartford, 1975 U.S. Open champion Lou Graham and Mike Morley, winner last month at Quad Cities.

Arnold Palmer was in a group at 72 and Ray Floyd, Gary Player and U.S. Open champion Hubert Green were at 74.

Tennis group sets 2 August tourneys

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Tennis Association will participate in bringing two tournaments to the Harmon Park courts in the next two weekends.

The first, slated for Aug. 20-21, will be the Sandpiper's singles tournament. Persons interested in participating in that event should mail entries ($3.00 per person) to 5101 Heyburn Ave. W. in Twin Falls, or call 733-2990 before Aug. 18.

The Twin Falls Beverage Company will sponsor a muscular dystrophy benefit doubles tournament Aug. 27. All proceeds from these events will go to fight muscular dystrophy.

The entry fee of $6.00 per doubles should be sent to 877 Briarwood, Twin Falls, or players may enter by calling 733-3228 after 5 p.m.

TF issues volleyball call

TWIN FALLS — All Twin Falls High School girls interested in playing volleyball should report to Coach Jim Ferguson at 3 p.m. Tuesday.

Coach Ferguson said those reporting must have their physical examination and insurance obligations met before they will be allowed to practice.

Black powder shooters meet

GOODING — A black powder rifle shoot will be held at the Gooding National Guard rifle range eight miles east of Gooding on the Gooding-Shoshone highway Aug. 20.

All black powder enthusiasts are welcome to attend and compete for prizes which will be awarded at the conclusion of the meet. Transportation to the range will be available, leaving Gooding's National Guard Armory at 12:30 p.m.

Rams sign Jackson

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Wide receiver Harold Jackson of the Los Angeles Rams signed a five-year contract Thursday with the Rams.

Jackson, 31, was drafted by the Rams in 1968, played with the Philadelphia Eagles in 1969 and returned to the Rams in a trade in 1973.

Rams' General Manager Don Klosterman would not reveal terms of the contract. He said he will meet Friday with Charles Young, a tight end who played with Philadelphia last year, in an attempt to negotiate a contract.

Maravich signs five-year contract with New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — All-pro guard Pete Maravich, one of the first players the New Orleans Jazz signed when the National Basketball Association franchise began in 1974, signed a five-year contract with the Jazz Thursday.

Sources reported the former Louisiana State University star will make between $600,000 and $700,000 a year but Maravich said those figures were exaggerations. He said reports on his salary were exaggerated when he was at Atlanta and after he signed his first Jazz contract.

"Of all of them, this is the most exaggerated," he said. "I'm not even close to that."

He said his salary probably is among the top 10 in the NBA.

Maravich led the NBA in scoring last year, averaging 31.1 points per game.

"One of the biggest reasons I have for staying here was not all money," Maravich said. "This is where it all started for me, in Louisiana.

"This is where I played the better part of my basketball career. I want to stay here in the city."

Maravich said negotiations were difficult, but Jazz General Manager Lewis Schaffel said the signing came sooner than expected.

Maravich was obtained from the Atlanta Hawks in 1974. Since joining the squad he has been All-Pro twice in the past three seasons.

"This could easily become the greatest franchise in the NBA because of the seating capacity we have," Maravich said. "I can see playing before an average of 25,000 per night if we become the team we can become.

"The only way to grasp people is to become a winner."

The 29-year-old guard was asked if there was a provision in the contract for him to become a coach or take over another club post when the contract expires.

"Please, please don't make me a coach before my time," Maravich responded. "I've got a lot of great years left."

Raiders, Rams draw Reno nods

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Harrah's Reno-Tahoe Racebook Thursday tabbed the Oakland Raiders and Los Angeles Rams as favorites to win their National Football League conferences.

The Raiders, winners of last January's Super Bowl XI, were made a 9-5 choice in the American Conference and the Rams were picked as 2-1 favorites in the National Conference.

Second choices were the Pittsburgh Steelers, 5-2, in the American and the Dallas Cowboys, 3-1, in the National.

Complete odds for the upcoming season:

American Conference — Oakland 9-5; Pittsburgh 5-2; Cincinnati 7-2; New England 5-1; Baltimore 6-1; Miami 10-1; Denver 15-1; Houston 20-1; Cleveland 20-1; Kansas City 25-1; San Diego 40-1; Buffalo 50-1; New York Jets 70-1; Seattle 200-1.

National Conference — Los Angeles 2-1; Dallas 5-2; Minnesota 4-1; Chicago 6-1; Washington 8-1; St. Louis 10-1; San Francisco 10-1; Detroit 12-1; New York Giants 20-1; Green Bay 30-1; Atlanta 30-1; Philadelphia 40-1; New Orleans 50-1; Tampa Bay 200-1.

Standardization of golf equipment looms

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Johnny Miller thinks golfers on the PGA tour should have their clubs inspected every week.

Jack Nicklaus says clubs should be inspected periodically.

Deane Beman is thinking about adopting a uniform ball.

Those were only three opinions among many raised Thursday during the opening round of the PGA Championship and they came as a result of a controversy that developed the previous day over the legality of some clubs.

George Burns started it at the stage of Hartford Open when he asked Clyde Mangrum, assistant Tour director, to inspect his clubs because he thought they might be illegal. They were and Burns withdrew from the final two rounds.

That caused several players who use the same clubs as Burns — notably Ray Floyd, Tom Watson, Gene Littler and Gary Player — to ask for an inspection Wednesday. Before play started Thursday 60 to 70 pros had asked for inspections.

Watson, winner of the Masters and British Open this year as well as four other tournaments, appeared to be the big loser. The clubs he used for those six victories were declared illegal (because of deep grooves on the face of the irons). He sent home for an older set — the one he used to win the 1975 British Open — and that, too was declared illegal.

Tom borrowed an extra set from Roger Maltbie, plus a sand wedge from Leonard Thompson, and went out to play, apparently undisturbed by it all. He wasn't doing all that badly either, with three birdies and a bogey through his first 12 holes.

"I think it would be a good thing ... everyone to have their clubs checked every week," said Miller. "It's kind of an honor system out here and there is no requirement to have your clubs checked, even once. I'm sure Watson wasn't aware there was anything wrong with his clubs. He got them that way from the manufacturer and assumed they were all right. But there are guys out here who file their clubs down to where you can shave with them."

"I think a periodic check would be all right," said Nicklaus. "The honor system has worked out pretty good all these years and I wouldn't want to see it junked altogether. In my opinion deep grooves can work against you as much as for you. It's really not that important, unless you are playing in deep or wet grass."

"We are the only sport without a uniform ball," said Beman, who is the PGA Commissioner. "I'd like to see us adopt one ball and stick with it. As for the clubs, we are going to hold a check at next week's tournament of every player in the event."

Nicklaus is disturbed at how some players are using special balls on par three holes and he thinks they should be forced to use those balls on all the other holes as well.

"It eliminates skill from the game," Nicklaus said, "and skill is what golf is all about."

When Miller was told several players had half a dozen of their clubs thrown out as being illegal, he laughed, but probably put the whole question in perspective.

"This game is tough enough," he said, "without half your bag gone."

...gels end Boston streak at eleven

BOSTON (UPI) — Bobby Bonds drove in four runs, two of them with his 29th homer, and Jerry Remy scored three times Thursday night when the California Angels snapped Boston's 11-game winning streak with a 7-3 victory over the Red Sox.

It was the Angels' seventh triumph in their last eight games.

With the score 3-3 in the third inning, Remy singled and advanced to third when losing pitcher Don Aase's pickoff attempt eluded George Scott. Bonds then drove in Remy with a sacrifice fly.

Orioles win in last inning

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Lee May delivered a two-out, two-run single in the bottom of the ninth inning Thursday to give Baltimore a 4-3 victory over the Seattle Mariners, the Orioles' fourth consecutive victory.

Starter Glenn Abbott entered the ninth with a five-hitter and a 3-1 lead but walked Pat Kelly with one out. Enrique Romo relieved and induced Billy Smith to hit a grounder to first baseman Dan Meyer, who threw the ball into left field. Tony Muser then hit a sacrifice fly, scoring Kelly.

Ken Singleton lined a double to right sending Smith to third before May lined his gamewinner over second base into short right field.

Lee Stanton's 18th home run, a two-run blast in the eighth inning, had given Seattle the lead.

Padres edge Atlanta 2-1

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Pat Scanlon drew a bases-loaded walk off rookie Preston Hanna with two out in the bottom of the ninth to score Dave Winfield from third base Thursday night, capping a two-run comeback as the San Diego Padres scored a 2-1 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

Hanna, 0-1, bidding for his first complete game in the major leagues, took a 1-0 lead into the ninth but Jerry Turner led off with his eighth homer of the year and Winfield doubled off the wall. Hanna fumbled George Hendrick's sacrifice bunt, putting runners on first and third.

Mills assumes lead in LPGA tournament

HAUPPAUGE, N.Y. (UPI) — Playing with the same Ram clubs that were declared illegal at the men's PGA Championship, Mary Mills fired a 68 Thursday to take a one-stroke lead in the opening round of the $100,000 Long Island Charity Classic.

"Before I teed off they (LPGA officials) told us they would check our clubs next week, so I'm not going to worry about it this week," said the 37-year-old veteran.

"We called the Ram factory in Chicago today and the word from them was that there's a high possibility the clubs are illegal."

Mills' four under par round gave her a one-stroke lead over Jane Blalock, who also uses Ram clubs, and Sandra Burns, who were tied at 69. Laura Baugh and Donna Caponi Young were among seven tied for fourth place at 70. Tour money leader Judy Rankin and Sandra Palmer, both users of Ram clubs, were in another large group at 71.

Mills conceded that the slightly wider scoring line on the club heads might give some of the golfers a small advantage, especially on the fast greens here, because it enables them to "back up" the ball a little more. But she added that the "difference is so infinitesimal" that it might not make any diffence to most of the women.

"You have to power the ball to get it to back up like that," Mills said. "I played with George Burns recently and he was one of the ones who had their clubs taken away at the PGA. He's a power hitter and could really back the ball up.

"But he works on his clubs all the time, as most of the men do, so I'm not so sure the width of the scoring lines in the clubs which weren't worked on is so great. Very few women know enough about golf equipment to make them illegal. Mine are straight from the factory."

The LPGA claimed it wouldn't be fair to make the 12 golfers using Ram clubs in the tournament change clubs just before the start or in the middle of play, so the checks by exacting calipers will not be held until early next week.

"There should be some consistency, we should play by the rules," Mills said. "I don't think somebody should have an advantage over me or anyone else."

Mills' 68 gave her the lead of a tournament for the first time this year. Using the same clubs, she finished 20th in her last two tournaments and her best finish this year was fourth in the Orange Blossom Classic. She ranks 26th in money winnings.

The highpoint of Mills' round came on the 455-yard, par-5 fourth hole where she managed an eagle 3 after reaching the green in two from the rough. She then rolled in a 10-footer and went three under on the fifth hole with a birdie. Mills picked up birdies on the seventh and ninth holes and her only bogey of the day came at the tricky 11th.

Cuban challenges 100-meter record

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (UPI) — Cuban speedster Silvio Leonard came within three-hundredths of a second of tying the world record for the 100-meter dash Thursday in winning the sprint in 9.98 seconds on the second day of the American Elimination Tournament for the World Track and Field Cup.

Leonard was just shy of the world record of 9.95, set by American James Hines in Mexico City in the 1968 Olympics.

Second place went to another Cuban, Oswaldo Lara, who was clocked in 10.20. Olympic champion Hasely Crawford of Trinidad-Tobago finished third in 10.28.

Leonard's individual performance overshadowed a fine team effort by the Canadian team, which won four events.

Scott Mellson of Canada took the hammer throw with a heave of 69.84 meters. Joanne McLeod mailed down the 100-meter hurdles with a 13.86-second clocking. Lucette Moreau captured the shot put with a toss of 53 feet, 5 inches and Dave Hill finished first in the 1,500 meter race with a clocking of 3:46.29.

Brazil's triple jump world champion, Joao De Oliveira became the tournament's first double winner when he captured his specialty with a jump of 55-1¾. At the opening session Wednesday, the Brazilian triumphed in the long jump with a leap of 26-3½.

Host country Mexico won two events in Thursday's competition.

Charlotte Bradley, three-time Central American champion, captured the 800 meter race with a time of 2:04.38 with a dramatic finish. The tall, lanky Mexican took the lead in the race with about 200 meters to go and, winning in a photo finish, fell in exhaustion just as she crossed the finish line and had to be carried off the field in a stretcher.

She was later reported to be a bit tired, but in excellent physical condition.

Carlos Martinez gave Mexico its second triumph of the day by coming out on top in the 3,000 meter steeplechase in a time of 9:01.2.

Roberto More was Cuba's second winner Thursday, taking the pole vault with a leap of 16-2¾.

Nearly 200 athletes from 19 hemisphere nations are competing in this elimination round for the chance to participate in the First World Track and Field Cup, to be held in Dusseldorf, West Germany, Sept. 2-4.

Only the winner of each event qualifies for the World Cup, except in the 100 and 400 meter races where the top four qualify for the relay teams.

The United States drew a bye because of its athletic potential.

Woman gunner sets 22-year precedent

CAMP PERRY, Ohio (UPI) — Mary Stidworthy of Prescott, Ariz., a private in the Army National Guard, became the first woman in 22 years to win the National Smallbore Rifle Championship Thursday and only the second since the match began in 1919.

Stidworthy, 20, a student at Yavapai Junior College in Prescott, Ariz., defeated a field of nearly 500 of the country's best .22-caliber target shooters during the four days of competition. She finished with 6,397 points out of a possible 6,400.

She survived a shot-for-shot duel with one of the world's most renowned rifle competitors, Army Maj. Lones Wigger, two-time Olympic Gold Medalist from Columbus, Ga.

Stidworthy started the day one point in front of Wigger. Both had perfect scores for the day and Wigger ended one point back.

This was the seventh year Stidworthy, who has been firing at targets since she was 11, has competed at the National Championships at this Lake Erie shoreline shooting grounds. Her previous best was fourth place last year.

She completed the final two days of competition without dropping a single point.

After the shoot, she won the praise of Wigger.

"Mary deserved to win," he said. "She is a tremendous competitor as her perfect score today shows."

The other woman to win the event was Viola E. Pollum in 1955.

Cheering Eagles greet return of club's control to owner

CHESTER, Pa. (UPI) — The Philadelphia Eagles Thursday took a momentary break from practice to greet owner Leonard Tose as he arrived to watch the afternoon drill.

Tose's visit came the day after a dramatic news conference at which he announced he had paid off a $5.1 million loan to First Pennsylvania Bank and was again in complete control of his football team.

Coach Dick Vermeil led his squad of 60 players to Tose as the owner stepped from his familiar green and white helicopter.

After receiving a rousing cheer from the players, Tose was presented by Vermeil with a green team jersey with the numeral one. The coach, who admitted Wednesday that he was considering resigning if the bank continued to interfere with team policies told the reporters that it was his idea to greet the owner.

"I just saw him come up there and thought it would be a nice thing to do," said Vermeil.

"I'm most appreciative and very touched," said Tose.

The Eagles practiced twice today and will only hold a light workout Friday before jetting to Los Angeles for Saturday night's pre-season game with the Rams at the Coliseum.

Rookie free agent Herman Edwards of San Diego State was expected to start at right cornerback ahead of veteran Al Clark, while the left cornerback spot will probably be manned by second-year man Tommy Campbell, ahead of veteran John Outlaw who is suffering from a pulled hamstring.

Ron Jaworski will start at quarterback against his old teammates, and he is expected to share signal calling duties with another former Ram, Roman Gabriel.

Aussies, Swedes take victories in yacht trials

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — Alan Bond's Australia 'over-powered France I and Sweden's Sverige defeated Australia's Gretel II Thursday when foreign challengers for the America's Cup began a series of semifinal races.

With three skippers taking turns at the helm, France I crossed the finish line 5:53 minutes behind Australia. It was the worst defeat recorded so far in official cup racing this summer.

After crossing the line ahead of the starting gun, Australia lost 42 seconds when she was forced to turn back and begin again. But she overcame the mistake and easily took a commanding lead over France I, an especially slow boat in light winds.

Ironically, Australia's early tactical error came under the direction of professional sailor Andy Rose of California, a tactician brought aboard by Bond to improve the yacht's starting technique.

Swedish crew members were pleased with their 2:07 minute victory over rival Australian challenger Gretel II, despite the eight knot winds teasing the sails in Rhode Island Sound.

"We led from the start and everything worked out right," said Sverige crewman Goran Tell. "If we had more wind we could do even better."

Two of the foreign yachts will be eliminated in the best-of-seven series that continues Friday. The two remaining boats will compete in final trials beginning Aug. 22 to pick a challenger for yachting's most coveted prize.

Next month, the foreign challenger will face an American defender chosen by the New York Yacht Club after a series of final trials beginning Aug. 16.

Courageous, skippered by Atlanta Braves' owner Ted Turner, leads Ted Hood's Independence and West Coast Challenger Enterprise after a set of preliminary trials.

Members of the Richmond, Va., Braves, an Atlanta Braves' farm club also owned by Turner, were spectators at the foreign trials Thursday.

Several ball players from the International League squad became seasick aboard Turner's sloop Tenacious but recovered in time for an evening game against the Pawtucket, R.I., Red Sox.

Women's amateur reaches semi-final

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Former champion Beth Daniel, Canadian Cathy Sherk and Texans Brenda Goldsmith and Nancy Hammer scored quarterfinal round victories Thursday at the 77th annual U.S. Women's Amateur Golf Championship.

Daniel will play Hammer and Sherk will be paired against Goldsmith in Friday's semifinals, with the champion to be decided Saturday.

Daniel, 20, of Charleston, S. C., defeated Julie Greene of Barrington, R.I., 2 and 1 in match play. In an earlier round Thursday, Daniel eliminated Mildred Stanley of Long Beach, Calif., 3 and 2, while Greene had ousted Elaine Hand of Douglas, Ga., 1-up.

Daniel, who won this tournament in 1975 at the age of 18, said she could hardly finish the final hole of her second match.

"I got to the point where I could hardly swing the club back," she said after negotiating the Cincinnati Country Club, one of the hilliest courses around.

"No one knew about me in 1975 and no one expected me to win then," recalled Daniel. "So I think it was easier to win the first time than it's going to be the second time. But I think I'm as good as anyone."

Sherk, 27, of Fonthill, Can., outplayed veteran Phyliss Preuss of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., 4 and 2. Earlier in the day Sherk had beaten Judy Clark of Woodbury, N.J., 2 and 1, while Preuss eliminated Robin Walton of Lewiston, Idaho, 5 and 3.

Goldsmith, 22, of San Antonio, Tex., edged Alicia Ogrin of Waukegan, Ill., 1-up. Earlier, Goldsmith had beaten Dianne Dalley of Winston-Salem, N.C., 1-up, while Ogrin had eliminated Patty Sheehan of Reno, Nev., 1-up in 19 holes.

Hammer, 24, of Dallas, Tex., ousted Janet Anderson of Slippery Rock, Pa., 2 and 1. Hammer earlier had beaten Susan Hardy of Phoenix, Ariz., 2 and 1, and Anderson had eliminated three-time champion Ann Sander of Seattle, Wash., 3 and 2.

Weese gets nod

DENVER (UPI) — Norris Weese is expected to start at quarterback for the Denver Broncos Saturday against the St. Louis Cardinals in the NFL pre-season game.

Coach Red Miller called Thursday's practice "another good day." Weese and Steve Spurrier handled most of the quarterback work during practice.

Offensive tackle Harry Goodman, defensive tackle Rubin Carter and linebacker Tom Jackson were all back in pads for the practice. Miller said all three would see action Saturday, but guard Paul Howard — nursing a pulled hamstring — would probably be held out of action.

Gullett sidelined

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Yankees Thursday placed left-handed pitcher Don Gullett on the 21-day disabled list retroactive to Aug. 6, the club announced.

Gullett, whose 10-3 record ties him with Ed Figueroa for the team lead in victories, has pitched only 118 innings this season — and complained frequently of pain in his left shoulder.

The Yankees recalled righthander Gil Patterson from their Syracuse farm team to replace Gullett. Patterson was 2-1 at Syracuse. Earlier this year with the Yankees, Patterson was 1-3 with a 5.00 ERA.

Steelers use platoon

LATROBE, Pa. (UPI) — Pittsburgh Steelers Coach Chuck Noll said Thursday he plans to use three quarterbacks — Terry Bradshaw, Mike Kruczek and rookie Cliff Stoudt — in Saturday's game against the Chiefs in Kansas City.

Noll said he is not certain in what rotation he will use the three.

Bradshaw played most of the game last weekend against the Buffalo Bills, but Kruczek and Stoudt did not see any action. Neil Graff, the team's fourth quarterback, will make the trip to Kansas City but will not play because he bruised his ribs against Buffalo.

Bills grab wide receiver

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (UPI) — The Buffalo Bills Thursday claimed rookie wide receiver Ken Smith, who was waived earlier this week by the New England Patriots.

Smith, from the University of Arkansas at Pine Bluff, was the Patriots' seventh round draft choice. He is regarded as having good speed off the line of scrimmage.
